THE PASSING.

GOVERNOR MAY NAME DACHROTH FOR ALDERMAN

Federation of Churches Wants to Have Him Succeed 'Squire Wadsworth.

Effort will be made to have Amos Dachroth appointed alderman of the Fourth ward of Allegheny. He has the backing of the Federation of Churches of the North Side. John Marron and the Rev. David A. McClenaghan will make a personal appeal to Gov. Samuel W. Pennypacker.

The ward is without an alderman. Walter Wadsworth, who holds the commission, has been missing from the city for about four months. Early in the spring he was arrested on a charge of conspiracy. Bail was furnished and then Wadsworth drifted out of sight. His friends have no knowledge of his whereabouts. Last week the office fixtures of the alderman were sold at constable's sale to satisfy creditors.

Gov. Pennypacker will be asked to declare the office vacant and appoint a successor to Wadsworth. Attorney Marron, who is prosecuting the Allegheny graft cases, and the Federation of Churches believe Dachroth would make a good alderman. Marron and the Rev. Mr. McClenaghan have interested themselves in Dachroth's behalf and are expected to visit the governor this week.

Dachroth was a policeman in Allegheny. About a year ago he was removed from the force. He then associated himself with those who are prosecuting the North Side grafters and gathered much evidence. He also charged Superintendent "Buck" Wallace of the Pittsburgh police force with grossly insulting him and preferred charges against him. He is a bitter foe of the Allegheny administration and his appointment would not be pleasing to it.

TARIFF IS THE ISSUE IN THE OHIO CAMPAIGN

Chairman Dick Will Not Permit Democrats to Dodge the Leading Plank in Their Platform.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 17.—"The tariff will be the chief issue in the canvass," declared Chairman Dick of the Republican state executive committee in a formal statement issued today, answering many inquiries regarding the issues of the gubernatorial campaign in Ohio. "The Democratic national platform last year denounced protection as a 'robbery.' Their platform this year leads off with a denunciation of the alleged 'protected monopolies.'"

Chairman Dick declares that Mr. Pattison, the Democratic candidate for governor, is in full sympathy with the party on this question and "that Democratic success in Ohio under such circumstances would have a distressing effect on the business of the nation."

THIRTY-FOUR OIL PLANTS WERE DESTROYED IN BAKU

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 17.—According to a telegram received from Baku today, the plants of 21 oil companies and those of 13 private owners were completely destroyed during the disturbances in the oil districts. The Baku company lost a third of its derricks, the Nobel company 40 per cent and the Born company 50 per cent. Only one of the Rothschild properties is intact.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The condition of Baron Komura at 6 p. m. in the opinion of both physicians in attendance was satisfactory in every respect.

CHINESE LOSE MUCH MONEY ON BOYCOTT

Secretary Taft Talks on Oriental Affairs—Starts for America.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

YOKOHAMA, Sept. 17.—Secretary of War Taft and party sailed this afternoon for San Francisco on the steamer Korea amid Japanese enthusiasm. A reception was given to Secretary Taft this afternoon at the American consulate by Yokohama merchants. Before sailing, Secretary Taft said he thought that reports of the Japanese anti-peace demonstrations had been greatly exaggerated in America. His party had traveled all through Japan and had found no trace of any anti-foreign feeling.

While prominent American persons had been involved in the Tokyo mob, he thought that it was because the party was caught in the mob and not because the persons were Americans. Other churches besides American churches had been burned. There was a special reason in each case, but no general anti-foreign feeling was responsible.

Secretary Taft said that he had examined the Chinese boycott closely. The Chinese, he said, wanted American goods, and, having already lost $15,000,000 by the boycott, were finding out that they were cutting off their noses to spite their faces.

Miss Alice Roosevelt will return home on the steamer Siberia.

The local situation continues quiet.

MATE DROWNS IN EFFORT TO SAVE WOMAN COOK

Crew of Burning Schooner Forget Her in the Capsizing of Their Lifeboat on Lake Superior.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

SAULT STE. MARIE, MICH., Sept. 17.—The schooner V. H. Ketchum, bound from Duluth to Cleveland, burned last night off Parisian Island, Lake Superior, and two members of the crew were drowned while attempting to leave the burning vessel in a lifeboat.

When it was seen the fire was beyond control the nine members of the crew, including Mrs. D. Ames, cook, launched the lifeboat and prepared to row to the steamer Nottingham, which had taken the Ketchum in tow. In attempting to lower the woman into the lifeboat the craft was capsized and the nine persons were thrown into the water.

In the struggle to save themselves the men forgot the presence of the woman and she was carried some distance away. Mate Andrew Anderson went to her rescue as she was sinking for the third time. Seizing her clothing, Anderson attempted to return to the ship, but the high waves carried him away. Tired out from his exertions and borne down by the weight of the helpless woman, he was unable to make any headway, and the two sank before the eyes of the other members of the crew, who could offer no assistance.

BIG THEFT BY PAYMASTERS.

Three Officers of the Mikado's Navy Embezzle $165,000 of Government Funds.

TOKYO, Sept. 17.—Information has been made public that three naval paymasters have embezzled $165,000 of government funds.

The announcement has been calmly received by the public, but the knowledge that the commission of the crime extended over the period of a year without discovery may, it is said, cause a feeling of distrust and uneasiness toward the naval administration, and furnish a weapon to the political parties that are opposing the government.

Russia Lost $113,000,000 in Ships.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 17.—The Russian losses in ships at Port Arthur, Vladivostok and the Sea of Japan, according to official statistics published this morning, amount to $113,000,000.

STRIKE RUMORS ARE MET WITH FLAT DENIAL

President F. L. Robbins Declares Miners' Wage Agreement Is Not Now at an Issue.

No strike is impending between the miners of the Pittsburgh district and the bituminous coal operators. Neither the miners nor operators have made any move which might be looked upon as a hint of future hostilities.

This was the substance of a statement made last night by President F. L. Robbins of the Pittsburgh Coal Company on his return from Cleveland. Mr. Robbins was in a position to speak definitely on every phase of the situation between the operators and the miners, and he was outspoken in denying the reports of alleged discontent which have been circulated broadcast during the last few days.

"There is no sign of discontent," said Mr. Robbins. "The scale question, moreover, is not at an issue. The settlement will not be made until next year and the present agreement will continue. There is no talk of a change from either miners or operators."

Mr. Robbins declared that business was good and that the normal output, gauged by recent figures, would continue with the same normal winter demand for fuel. He said the report that a meeting of the operators had been held with a view of mining a big surplus of coal to guard against future seasons of enforced idleness of the miners was absurd.

FUGITIVE HAS HARD TIME.

Absconding Witness in Land Fraud Cases Loses Way and Nearly Starves in Mountain Wilds.

GRANTS PASS, ORE., Sept. 17.—(Special.)—Joseph Cosgrove, wanted as a witness in the land fraud trials, and who disappeared from the Takilma smelter at Waldo nearly two weeks ago, has been found. Cosgrove crawled into the camp of his uncle and father near Kerby in a shocking condition. He had been lost for 12 days in the mountain wilds of Southern Josephine county, and had had hardly anything to eat during that time.

Cosgrove fell from a cliff and was badly injured over a week ago. He had crawled about the woods with a sprained ankle, a bruised arm and a badly cut face and head. He is too weak to talk except in whispers.

OUTLAW CHIEF KILLED.

Leader of the Disturbing Element in Cavite Jumps Over a Cliff When Surrounded.

MANILA, Sept. 17.—Feliardo, chief of the outlaws in the province of Cavite, who for a long time have made trouble for the authorities, was surrounded today near the Batangas border and jumped over a cliff. He was killed by the fall.

The death of Feliardo, it is believed, will end the disturbances in the province of Cavite.

CLAIMS HE IS SLAYER OF J. WILKES BOOTH

DALLAS, TEX., Sept. 17.—(Special.)—A man claiming to be Boston Corbett, who shot J. Wilkes Booth after the assassination of Abraham Lincoln in 1865, has been arrested in San Angelo, Tex., for using fraudulent papers in an attempt to collect a war veteran's pension. United States District Attorney Atwell started from Dallas today for San Angelo to prosecute the prisoner in the United States court. Boston Corbett, it is claimed, died in the Kansas asylum for the insane several years ago.

FISHING TUG IS RIDDLED

Steamer Barnhurst Runs Gauntlet of Guns of the Vigilant.

ESCAPES CANADIAN

Her Irish Engineer Declares He Will Never Surrender to a Britisher.

FIREMAN FAINTS IN HOLD

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ERIE, PA., Sept. 17.—The fourth of the fish tug incidents of the past week took place in mid-lake Erie this afternoon when the Canadian cruiser Vigilant riddled the big steam tug Harry G. Barnhurst with small shells from the rifle in the patrol boat.

Capt. Nick Fusel of the tug admitted, after he escaped, the Vigilant could have sent the Barnhurst to the bottom if Capt. Dunn had so desired. The Barnhurst ran more than eight miles under full head of steam before she crossed the boundary line and escaped from the Canadians.

More than 30 shots struck the vessel and of these 15 of the small shells landed with telling effect on the upper parts, so the boat careened to one side with the mass of wreckage when she came into port.

Having been used formerly for a pleasure steamer, the Barnhurst is of large size and well fitted with steam equipment. She carried only one engineer, Jerry Collins, an Irishman, who said he would never see her taken by Canada and would let her sink before surrendering.

The fireman, Magnus Johnson, fainted in the hold from over-exertion in keeping the steamer going ahead. He was reported killed, but revived after reaching shore. Two fishermen were cut in the face by splinters shot away by the bullets.

The Barnhurst, according to Capt. Fusel, was about five miles over the line drawing nets, when the Vigilant appeared. The other Erie tugs, the Alma, Valiant and the Boyd, were closer to the line, and ran away when the chase started. Capt. Dunn ordered the Barnhurst to stop, but instead of doing so Capt. Fusel put on full steam and started for the line. He took a southwesterly direction and could not be headed by the Vigilant, although his boat was raked with bullets and shells.

It has become quite the custom for the Erie fishermen to cross the line regardless of strict orders from the companies employing them, and having exciting brushes with the Vigilant. They never think of surrender when there is a chance to run away. They feel, however, that some of these days one of the fish tugs will be sent to the bottom by the Vigilant, and then they will be more careful to obey the laws.

DESPERATE FROM JILT, HE WANTED TO DIE

Lundin Hears of Sweetheart With the Other Fellow and Slashes Throat and Wrist.

Because his sweetheart had jilted him Edmund Lundin, aged 38, of the Hotel Brady, Duquesne, yesterday morning slashed his throat and wrist in an alleged attempt to kill himself. He was taken to the McKeesport hospital and he will recover, although he almost bled to death.

While on his way to church yesterday morning, where he expected to see the girl, a friend informed him she had just passed with another man, and had laughingly remarked to a crowd that she had "given Lundin the mitten." Lundin returned to his room, secured a razor and made an attempt to sever the jugular vein, inflicting two dangerous cuts. He then slashed his left wrist, but again missed the main artery. Before falling on the floor faint from the loss of blood he managed to make himself heard and was sent to the hospital.

DAURIGNAC TO BE DEPORTED FROM AMERICA

Ex-Convict and Brother of the Notorious Mme. Humbert Must Return to France.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Romaine Daurignac, brother of Mme. Theresa Humbert, now serving a sentence in France on swindling charges in connection with the Crawford estate, was ordered deported today by the board of inquiry at the immigration department, after a hearing on Ellis island. Daurignac arrived in New York on Saturday on a French line steamer.

The law under which Daurignac was ordered sent back to France today forbids the entry into the United States of a man who has served a sentence in prison for other than a political offense. Daurignac was convicted in France of irregular practices in connection with certain insurance deals. He claimed today, however, his conviction was due entirely to the influence of political enemies of his grandfather and father, both French senators, and said he had no idea his serving a term in a French prison would bar him from landing in this country.

When, after the brief hearing, the chairman curtly remarked, "Ordered deported," Daurignac simply shrugged his shoulders and said: "Ah, that is what I expected."

GIVES AWAY AUTOMOBILE HE BOUGHT FOR HIS WIFE

James B. Duke, Who Seeks Divorce, Also Wants to Be Separated from Big Machines.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—When James B. Duke, president of the American Tobacco Company, who has a 2,000-acre estate at Somerville, N. J., married Mrs. Lillian McCreedy last November, he laid aside his aversion for automobiles and bought three big flyers at a cost of $25,000, just to please his bride.

Since Mr. Duke has separated from his wife and brought action against her for divorce, he has also taken measures to separate himself from his automobiles. Last week he gave one of his big machines to a young man who is said to be an employe of his New York office. The indications are that Mr. Duke is about to return to his former simple life and his carriage and horses. Today he discarded his automobile for his carriage and drove over his estate behind a team of bays.

The extensive work of preparing the site for the $1,000,000 mansion which Mr. Duke intended for his bride is still going on, but it is believed will soon be indefinitely postponed.

THROW BREAKFAST FOOD WHEN CONFETTI RUNS OUT

Franklin's Streets Resemble the Floor of a Flour Mill After Saturday Night's Jollification.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

FRANKLIN, PA., Sept. 17.—Franklin's streets today resemble the floor of a flour mill as the result of Saturday night's celebration closing the old home week. The supply of confetti having become exhausted the crowd purchased everything it could throw by the handful, and the principal stores sold every package of breakfast food and every pound of rice they had.

One dealer disposed of two barrels of spoiled cornmeal at an advanced price and cleaned up $50 profit. Another sold a barrel of barley he intended sending back to the jobber because it was not good.

At the mayor's order no arrests were made on account of Saturday night's jollification.

Mr. Takahira to Return Home.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The Japanese minister, Mr. Takahira, expects to sail for his home in Japan in a few weeks to join Mme. Takahira, who has been over there for nearly two years.

WILL WAIT FOR COUNT

No Change Has Been Made in Result of the Republican Primaries.

WORK FOR EXPERTS

Apportionment of the Vote in the Three Contests Will Be a Gigantic Task.

MURRAY STANDS BY PLEDGE

Returns from some of the missing districts in Saturday's Republican primaries were received yesterday. County Chairman Thomas J. Ford remained at his home in Etna and made no effort to collect figures. The candidates were all resting and every one is waiting for the meeting of the official returning board at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

It is believed the missing districts will not alter the results announced Saturday night, when it was admitted this ticket had been nominated: Judge, James S. Young; prothonotary, W. B. Rieker; recorder, John A. Fairman; register, R. E. Stone; commissioners, C. B. Price and I. K. Campbell; treasurer, George K. Hosack; clerk of courts, William Dodds; controller, Franklin P. Booth; director of the poor, W. H. Guy.

The returning board has a gigantic task before it. The tabulation and calculation must be made as follows: "The vote received by the highest Republican presidential elector in each district at the last preceding election for president shall be apportioned among the candidates in the ratio of the votes received by them respectively at such primary election, and the one receiving the highest total vote so calculated shall be the successful candidate, and shall be so declared by the said returning board."

Work for Mathematicians.

Robert Pitcairn, as a presidential elector, received the highest vote in the county, his vote was 90,351. The candidates for judge, prothonotary, register, treasurer and controller had no opposition, and they will each be credited with 90,194 votes. W. H. Guy, for director of the poor, was unopposed, and he will be credited with 90,280 votes, the vote polled by Mr. Pitcairn outside of Pittsburgh and Allegheny.

The trouble in the account will come in the tabulation of the votes cast for recorder, commissioners and clerk of courts. For these offices there were eight candidates in the field. Mathematicians will have to correctly apportion the vote in each district. A crisis of the new party rules has figured. It will take an expert accountant 25 days to compute the vote in the 66 districts in the county. If this were true, it would be impossible to have the certificates of nomination ready for filing with the county commissioners within the 25-day limit of the November election fixed by the laws of the state. Of course, this man is a knocker.

What Expert Must Do.

Chairman Ford will have a corps of expert accountants and experts to have the returns tabulated as speedily as possible. An illustration of the figuring which will have to be done is cited by giving the vote for commissioner in Monroeville. Murray received 45 Campbell 49 and Price 4. There were 232 votes cast for president. The accountant must apportion the vote among the candidates.

So far there have been no notices of contest served by any of the candidates on the county chairman. If the vote in a district is disputed the chairman must be notified by 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Each contest shall be heard and decided in public by the returning board.

The 90,194 votes cast for the president were distributed as follows in the county: Pittsburgh, 58,726; Allegheny, 31,468; McKeesport, 3,866; boroughs, 13,239; townships, 11,466.

W. W. Murray denies the report that he will go on the Citizens-Democratic ticket. He says he will abide by the result of the primaries. The vacancy committee of the Citizens is to meet this afternoon and is supposed to make nominations for commissioner, prothonotary and director of the poor. It is possible it will wait for the result of the Republican returning board.

Rodgers on Coal Story.

Former Senator Charles A. Muehlbronner, who lost his ward, the Eleventh of Allegheny, in the recordership fight, was quoted in several papers yesterday as saying that two barges of coal were distributed among the supporters of Fairman. Former Judge Elliott Rodgers, chief counsel for the Pittsburgh Coal Company, and the man who led the fight for Fairman, lives in the same district in the Eleventh ward that Senator Muehlbronner does. When asked last night about the coal story, he said:

"That statement is untrue and Senator Muehlbronner knew it was untrue when he made it. There was not a load of coal or a lump of coal distributed. The people of the Eleventh ward are neither beggars nor are they dependent on charity. They resent this insult."

Judge Rodgers says the ticket nominated Saturday is a splendid one and will be elected.

There was rivalry Saturday between the Republicans of Oakmont and Verona in their report of Charles B. Price for commissioner. Mr. Price lives in Oakmont and the shops of the Valley railroad of which he was superintendent for so many years, are in Verona. In Oakmont Mr. Price received 140 of the 165 votes cast and in Verona he got 147 out of a total poll of 186 votes.

TOKYO'S STREETS STILL UNDER MILITARY GUARD

TOKYO, Sept. 17.—The resignation of Minister Yoshikawa has been received with satisfaction by the Intelligent class. The Jiji deems his action proper, as the minister of a constitutional government. The above figures and other statistics remain under military guard, but there is no sign of disorder anywhere.

VIGILANTES IN THE YOUGH VALLEY

Angry Citizens of West Newton Tear Down Barricade That Stopped Travel on a Bridge—Continue to Defy County Authorities.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

WEST NEWTON, Sept. 17.—Armed with crowbars and sledge-hammers, 70 men, some with faces concealed by handkerchiefs, strode silently to the Youghiogheny river bridge here last midnight and by the moon's light tore down the barricade which had been placed there Friday by Constable Thomas Washbaugh of Greensburg, under the direction of the county commissioners.

So quickly were the crowbars and hammers wielded, while not a word was spoken, that within 15 minutes after the arrival of the mysterious company the ruins of the barricade were floating down the Youghiogheny. The silent band then vanished.

Constable B. R. Peters knew nothing of the vigilance committee's action until it was too late. He was notified by some unknown watcher, but by the time he reached the bridge the obstacle to traffic was fast disappearing down stream.

The unconventional mode of removing the barricade was the outcome of indignation over the commissioners' action in closing the bridge to wagon and carriage traffic without furnishing any other means of communication between West Newton and Westside, across the river. The bridge was condemned by the county engineers several months ago, and the county commissioners contracted with the Penn Bridge Company for a new $70,000 bridge. The contract was referred to Judge A. D. McConnell for his indorsement, but he has never approved the contract.

The old structure, which was built more than 70 years ago, had become unsafe, and Friday the commissioners sent Constable Washbaugh here armed with authority to close it except to foot passengers. The action was unexpected, and many who had crossed the river with teams found themselves suddenly cut off from return. They were forced to leave their horses at livery stables and go home on foot.

The cemetery, on the west side of the river, was closed to funeral processions. Yesterday afternoon a casket containing the body of a child had to be carried across the bridge by pallbearers. Several men yesterday, driving in narrow-tread buggies, who came to the bridge and found it closed, unhitched the horse, led it across the foot path and then drew the buggy over by hand.

The funeral of Peter V. Andy, a Baltimore & Ohio railroad conductor who was killed in a wreck, will be held here tomorrow, and it is said the funeral procession, which will be a large one, will drive across the bridge, which has been opened by citizens who took the law into their own hands. It is declared Barricades will be torn down as fast as they are put up.

CHRISTIANITY IS NOT UNDER BAN

Japanese Teacher Says War Has Not Prejudiced His Nation Against It.

ADMIRAL TOGO NOT CONVERT

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—What effect the war in the far east will have upon the propagation of the Christian religion in Japan, was the subject of a lecture at the West Branch Young Men's Christian association today, by Dr. Ibuka, president of an institution of learning in Tokyo, and himself a Christian.

That the recent outbreak in Tokyo and the attack upon the churches was the result of merely a local feeling and did not represent any widespread anti-foreign or anti-Christian sentiment in the empire, was the assertion of the lecturer.

"For more than 300 years," said Dr. Ibuka, "the practice of the Christian religion in Japan was prohibited under the death penalty, and it has been only about 35 years since this law was repealed. Is it surprising that there are still a few fanatics in the capital who are prejudiced against Christianity?

"When the war with Russia began, I and my fellow Christians in Japan were exceedingly uneasy for fear the struggle should result in a lasting animosity toward the Christian religion in the empire. At first the cry was raised that it was a struggle of Buddhism against Christianity, and the Russians did many things to foster this sentiment, but it was not long until this illusion was dispelled and the people were brought to see that religion and religious beliefs had no part in the war.

"Already China has become aroused to the fact she has much to learn, and she is seeking this knowledge from Japan, rather than from European countries. Hundreds of the young men of Japan are taking positions as instructors in the Chinese institutions of learning, and hundreds of the young men of China are coming to the colleges of Japan for instruction. It is vitally necessary the young men should be taught the truths of the Christian religion if it is to be spread in China."

Dr. Ibuka said reports which had been published that Admiral Togo had embraced the Christian religion were untrue.

SNUBBED BY HER CHILD; WOMAN COMMITS SUICIDE

Young Mother Swallows Acid Because Her Son Refuses to Talk to Her.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

RICHMOND, KY., Sept. 17.—Driven temporarily insane by the refusal of her 6-year-old son to kiss or even to talk to her, Mrs. Laura M. Chenault, 26 years old, one of the belles of the Blue Grass state, committed suicide here this afternoon, by swallowing carbolic acid. The suicide was a daughter of J. Stone Walker, for a long time president of the State Loan and Trust Company, and her husband, Thomas D. Chenault, Jr., is connected with one of the local banks.

Something over a month ago Mr. and Mrs. Chenault separated, the husband taking the only child, a boy of 6. This afternoon Mrs. Chenault asked her husband to bring the boy to see her. Mr. Chenault readily acceded to the request, but when the boy caught sight of his mother he seemed to be overcome with fright. At all events, he positively refused to enter the house where she was.

Mrs. Chenault has for several days appeared depressed, and the refusal of her boy to come to her when she called, is thought to have made her momentarily insane. She left the window, where she had gone to greet the boy, and swallowed the acid.

SNAG IS STRUCK IN SCANDINAVIA

Norwegian and Swedish Delegates Still Considering Fortifications.

TERMS MAY NOT BE APPROVED

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

KARLSTAD, Sept. 17.—The Norwegian and Swedish delegates sat in conference today from noon until 2 o'clock and from 5 until 7 o'clock, at which time they adjourned until tomorrow.

The question of fortifications is still being discussed and some unforeseen difficulties have appeared. It is expected that the discussion will be concluded Wednesday. The result will then be submitted to the riksdag and the storthing. The riksdag's approval of the result of the negotiations is sure, but that of the storthing is doubtful, especially if the Norwegian delegates yield on the questions concerning the forts.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Reliable information reaches the department of state by way of Paris that in a few days Sweden and Norway are expected to reach an amicable settlement and adjust their differences in a peaceable way. The consideration and disposition of details has caused delay.

CHRISTIANIA, Sept. 17.—Peace between Sweden and Norway being assured a quieter feeling prevails here. News from Karlstad, however, is still awaited with the keenest interest, and there is anxiety to learn the details of the compromise. The press is unanimous in hoping for a speedy settlement of the question. There are some misgivings entertained that peace may have to be bought too dearly, but all the newspapers express relief that peace has been secured, provided it is on an enduring basis.

The Aftenposten says there are still some difficulties to be overcome, but that they cannot, according to human calculation, lead to a rupture. The candidature of a prince of the house of Bernadotte for the Norwegian throne is now considered to be set aside.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 18.—Nothing is known here regarding the details of the compromise reached by the Swedish and Norwegian commissioners at Karlstad, but it is reported that all the frontier fortresses except that of Kongsvinger will be dismantled. The newspapers echo the public expressions of satisfaction over the report that a compromise has been arranged. The Svenska Dagbladet says:

"If Sweden is to be able in the future as in the past to fulfill her historic mission as the outpost in the north for the protection of the Germanic races, then in this controversy the lesser must give way to the greater."

Reports continue to be published here from travelers to the effect that Norway is engaging in extensive military preparations, and in the construction of temporary fortifications, special activity being noted during the past week.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The Daily Mirror publishes a statement from Fritjof Nansen to the effect that the fortresses of Kongsvinger and Frederiksten will retain their modern works, the other new fortresses being demolished. The explorer adds that "Norway's future government will be decided by a referendum and will probably be a monarchy."

Prof. Harald Hjarne, a member of the Swedish riksdag, admitted to the Daily Mirror that Sweden had consented to the retention of the new parts of the old fortresses. He added that Sweden would probably construct new forts outside the zone of neutrality, opposite Kongsvinger and Fredriksten.

The Karlstad correspondent of the Times says that on Friday the Swedish commissioners intimated their willingness to meet the desire of the Norwegian commissioners for the simultaneous treatment of both questions at issue by offering to allow the stipulation regarding arbitration treaty to form part of an agreement for the demolition of the forts and to come into force at the same time.

MURDERER INDIFFERENT REGARDING HIS CRIMES

"Bud" Williams Expresses No Regret Over Shooting Woman—Other Victim's Recovery Doubtful.

Charles Quincey, who was shot by John ("Bud") Williams, at 1209 Locust street Saturday night, when the latter also shot and killed Mrs. James Quincey, is still in a dangerous condition at Mercy hospital. The physicians say they will be unable to determine for 48 hours whether he will live.

Williams is still confined at Central station and last night told Detectives Aymer and Riley he did not regret his act. He asked to see his wife and child, but was refused. Williams was told both were well, but only expressed his pleasure in knowing his child was being cared for. The latter is with its mother at Central station, but Williams does not know this.

A post-mortem examination was held on the body of Mrs. Mamie Quincey yesterday. It was found the bullet entered her heart. Williams seems resigned to his fate. "I have been in jail many times," he said, "but there will be no coming out day for me on this charge."

Mrs. Goldie Williams, the negro's wife, was told yesterday her husband had killed her mother. She was taken to the morgue and identified the body and was then taken back to the Central station, where she is being held as a witness.

CHARGED WITH ABDUCTION.

Washington County Man Arrested Here in Pittsburgh Early This Morning.

J. H. Broderick of Washington, D. C., was arrested in Tioga street, this city, at 3.30 o'clock this morning by Detectives Elmore and Seifert on request of the chief of police of the national capital.

The prisoner is charged with the abduction of his two children, aged 5 and 7 years. He left Washington with the children last Wednesday and came to Pittsburgh. Broderick declares he will not return to Washington without requisition papers.

PERQUISITES OF OFFICERS TO BE PROBED BY COMMITTEE

Big Insurance Men, It Is Said, Receive Percentages on Business Written in Addition to Their Salaries and Fees.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—A forthcoming phase of the legislative insurance inquiry, it was said today, will be the investigation of alleged percentages received by high insurance officials on business written, in addition to their salaries and fees. The committee, it is said, has received communications declaring that it has been the custom of high officers in several big companies to receive such percentages and commissions.

As regards the rumor that J. Pierpont Morgan may be called on to testify before the committee, Assemblyman Ezra P. Prentice, the secretary of the committee, said today:

"The committee will have no hesitation in calling on Mr. Morgan, or any other man, to testify, if it believes his testimony is essential to the inquiry or that he is the man best qualified to furnish the committee with the information it seeks. In the light of the hearings up to date, however, I see no reason why Mr. Morgan should be called."

Asked as to the report that Cornelius N. Bliss may be asked to furnish a list of all contributions received by the Republican national committee from life insurance companies last year, Mr. Prentice said:

"I believe that any contribution so made will be furnished by the insurance companies themselves, and that there will be no need to call on the treasurers of any committees."

IS FIRST BABY BORN ON BROOKLYN BRIDGE

Young Mr. Hamilton, No. 240 Bond St., Will Enjoy Unique Distinction If He Grows Up.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—If young Mr. Hamilton of 240 Bond street, Brooklyn, grows to manhood he will always enjoy a distinction that nothing can take from him. He is the first person born on the Brooklyn bridge.

Baby Hamilton is now one day old. His first glimpse of the world was from the Manhattan terminal of the Brooklyn bridge this morning, at 7 o'clock, while his mother, Mary Hamilton, 21 years old, was on her way to the Lying-in hospital at Sixteenth street and Second avenue.

Policemen and citizens scurried around for a physician and calls were sent to several hospitals. An ambulance from the Hudson Street hospital was first to arrive, and Mrs. Hamilton and her baby were quickly removed from the crowd. Later mother and son were removed to the hospital, where they were reported to be in excellent condition tonight.

A young woman who was on the car asked that she might act as the baby's godmother and suggested that he be christened "Bridge" Hamilton.

PROMISING CAREER CUT SHORT BY DEATH

John C. Reed, Jr., Inventor of Modern Iron Moulding Methods, Dies After Long Illness.

John C. Reed, Jr., general foreman of the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company, died yesterday morning at 6 o'clock at the family residence, Brighton Road, near Ternon avenue, Allegheny.

Mr. Reed was born in Millvale borough, August 26, 1873, and was the son of John C. and Mary Curtis Reed. He attended the Millvale public schools, but at the age of 14 began his apprenticeship in the iron molding trade under his father. In 1893 he was employed by the Standard Manufacturing Company and became foreman of the foundry department in 1896, in which position he continued until 1898, when his health failed and he was obliged to go to Colorado, where he remained two years, returning in apparently good health. For a short time after his return he was employed in a clerical position in the offices of the Pressed Steel Car Company, later resuming his position with the Standard company, which had been merged into the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company, and was in charge of the foundry department, Preble avenue, Allegheny. In 1901 he became foreman of the foundries of the company at the Standard works and was foremost in the invention and improvement of machinery for mechanical molding, which was then being used in manufacturing that class of work. In 1903 his health again failed and he was obliged to seek the west, remaining in Denver for a time and later going to Tucson, Ariz., where he spent the winter with his mother, returning home last May with his health slightly improved. He leaves his parents and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. William A. McMaster, Allegheny; Henry M. Reed, with the Standard Co., and Miss Pearl E. Reed, at home.

Funeral services will be held from the family residence tomorrow at 2 p. m. and the interment will be in Thompson's cemetery, near Evergreen.

TWELVE PERSONS HURT.

Crowded Trolley Car Going Down Hill Jumps the Track and Crashes into a Telephone Pole.

ALLENTOWN, Sept. 17.—Twelve persons were injured here today in an accident on the Lehigh Valley Transit Company. Slippery rails caused a car bound from South Bethlehem to Hellertown to slide down a steep hill. Near the foot of the hill the car jumped the track and dashed against a telephone pole, throwing the passengers into the street. The more seriously injured are: Agnes Hildegrass, Allentown, broken leg and probably internally hurt; Rosa Boyer, South Bethlehem, broken leg, internally injured; John Oberdoersater, Allentown, ankle injured and hurt internally; John M. Good, injured about the legs.

TRAIN GOES INTO CREEK WITH TERRIBLE RESULTS

Two Persons Are Killed and Many Injured by a Wreck in Missouri.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

IRONTON, MO., Sept. 17.—Two persons were killed, one fatally hurt and 13 injured in the wreck of the south-bound passenger train No. 5 on the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern railroad, caused by the washing out of a culvert three miles north of the city.

The wreck occurred early this morning. Two engines and five cars were precipitated into the creek when the rails over the culvert gave way. One chair car and four Pullmans were derailed, but remained upright, their occupants escaping injury.

Both engines were demolished and Engineer Allen and Fireman J. Brown of the second engine were instantly killed. Engineer John Hays of St. Louis, pilot of the first engine, was probably fatally hurt. His fireman, W. W. Madley of De Soto, Mo., escaped with a few severe bruises. Of the 13 injured, none was seriously hurt. A relief train arrived from De Soto shortly before daybreak. Wrecking trains dispatched to the scene cleared up the wreck about 7 o'clock this evening.

At the point at which the wreck occurred the railway makes a sharp curve and crosses a small creek. The rains of yesterday and last night had turned the stream into a raging torrent and all support for the rails had been washed away.

The train consisted of 10 coaches, two mail cars, two express, a smoker, a chair car and four Pullmans, and drawn by two engines struck the curve at the usual speed. The rails gave way and the entire train with the exception of the five rear coaches plunged into the ditch. The rainfall for the last two days was the heaviest known in this section for years.

KILLS FORMER FIANCEE WHO WEDDED HIS RIVAL

Hoosier Youth of Wealthy Parents Fires Four Bullets Into the Woman, Then Takes His Life.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CROWN POINT, IND., Sept. 17.—Harry Hohman of Hammond, Ind., son of a wealthy family, angered because his fiancee of five years had married Charles Jeannette of Steger, Ill., today in the presence of many persons fired four bullets into his former sweetheart's heart and then killed himself.

Miss Ida Taylor had been betrothed to Hohman for five years, but two weeks ago she was married to Jeannette. She was a beautiful woman and had been connected with a summer resort hotel before her marriage. She and her husband lived at this hotel.

Vowing vengeance, Hohman came to Crown Point Saturday and secured a room at the hotel where the Jeanettes stayed. This afternoon Mrs. Jeannette went to the back yard and Hohman followed her. As she turned to face him Hohman drew a magazine revolver and fired four shots at the woman. As she fell dead amid the startled cries of the summer boarders, who rushed to see whence the shots came, Hohman fired two bullets into his heart and fell dead beside the woman's body.

BOY SUICIDE LOVED.

Was Attached to Woman Greatly His Senior, but Grew Despondent Over His Suit.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 17.—Relatives with whom he had lived in this city today admitted that John S. Green, the 16-year-old boy who yesterday committed suicide at Roches hotel, New York, took his life because of the hopelessness of his love for a woman, considerably his senior, who lives at Sparrows Point, near this city. He is said to have assigned this reason for his act in the letter received by his sister yesterday morning.

Nothing whatever is known of his relatives or any man who could be responsible for young Green's trouble, as intimated in a letter which is understood to be in the possession of the New York coroner, though it may possibly refer to some one more fortunate than the suicide in the suit for the lady.

TYPHOID DEATH RATE GREATLY INCREASED

WILKES-BARRE, Sept. 17.—The critical stage in the illness of many of the typhoid patients at Nanticoke has been reached, and the death list will probably increase. Today there were but five new cases, but there were five deaths. The total number of cases is 528. Among the deaths today was that of David A. Davis, deputy clerk of the courts of Luzerne county.

Whitney kept his thoroughbreds and Imp. Meddler, which was Mr. Whitney's premier sire, will be the leading stallion of Mr. Mackay's establishment. Imp. Meddler and Bannister, stallions, and thirty head of brood mares are to come in October. His lease on the Silverbrook stud expires November 1.

HIS HEART OUT, YET MAN LIVES

Surgeon Holds Beating Member in His Hand While He Looks for a Bullet.

THE PATIENT WILL RECOVER

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau, Press Building.
PHILADELPHIA, PA., Sept. 17.

The removal of a man's beating heart from his body and its replacement after a bullet had been extracted from the region adjacent to the pulsating organ is the remarkable achievement of medical science just accomplished by the physicians at the Germantown hospital.

The patient is Frank Robinson, 28 years old. He became a subject of surgical attention as the result of an altercation with Policeman Morley on September 7.

The policeman's bullet [illegible] Robinson's left breast, directly on a line with his heart. When Robinson continued to live for 24 hours, some of the most eminent physicians of the city were called into consultation to find if it was possible to open the chest and remove the heart for an examination. One distinguished master of surgery volunteered to perform the operation.

To carry it out, portions of two ribs had to be removed, exposing the heart to full view. No evidence of a bullet could be seen, so the surgeon carefully removed the delicate organ from the body, and holding it in his hands made a minute and thorough examination. As soon as it was taken from the body it was observed the heart seemed to beat more vigorously and with greater regularity.

Attention was then given to the fleshy environment in the heart region of the chest, which was found to be considerably inflamed. For nearly an hour the search for the seat of the trouble was continued before the lodgment of the bullet was located. The leaden missile was found to be imbedded in the flesh within a small fraction of an inch of the heart, upon which it had caused pressure.

There is every probability Robinson will recover.

ROCKEFELLER DELIVERS A TEMPERANCE HOMILY

Cites to His Class Awful Example of Harvard Graduate Who Fell from Grace in Minister's House.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 17.—John D. Rockefeller delivered a strong temperance address to the Sunday school of the Euclid Avenue Baptist church this morning, warning the members against strong drink. He said:

"I remember reading an incident in a newspaper several years ago illustrating this. A drunkard was giving his testimony at a temperance meeting one evening. Two years before he had been graduated from Harvard university, never knowing the taste of liquor. But shortly after, while visiting at the home of his minister, some of the ladies asked him to taste wine. He did not wish to offend, so he broke the rule which had kept him straight.

"Two years after, at the time of the temperance meeting, he was in the gutter. He had lost all of his friends, his brain was in a muddle, and he was completely deserted. And the minister who was leading the meeting was the man in whose home the student had first known intoxicating liquor."

Sacrifices Salary to Remain in McKeesport

Because there has been so much difficulty in keeping school teachers in the McKeesport schools recently, Miss Annie Lawton of Sixth avenue, that city, has decided to retain her position in the High school, notwithstanding the fact that she was recently elected to a school in Braddock at an increase of $10 a month in salary. Miss Lawton has notified Superintendent J. B. Richey of her intention to remain. Miss Lawton said that she did not care to create any further trouble by resigning, inasmuch as she has been well treated by the officials and teachers of McKeesport.

FIGHTING FOR HIS REPUTATION

Joseph Ramsey, Jr., Declares He Will Stay With Wabash If Possible.

NO SECRET FIGHT WITH GOULD

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau, Herald Building, Herald Square, NEW YORK, Sept. 17.

Joseph Ramsey, Jr., president of the Wabash Railroad Company, tonight outlined his position in the battle for control of the Wabash against George J. Gould.

"There seems to be the impression," began Mr. Ramsey, "that I am backed by a long string of other railroads and powers.

"There will be an election on October 19. Whether I am to be re-elected is another question, but I feel my chances are good. The Wabash, no matter what any one says, is not controlled by any man or coterie of men. Mr. Gould does not hold enough securities to enable him to name any one to the presidency. The majority of the proxies will come from independent sources, and I do not think Mr. Gould controls these sources. It's anyone's fight.

"I have worked 10 years of my life for the Wabash. I think I am needed to make the Wabash what it should be—a great road. I feel that I have been behind most of the outreaching plans of the road. The Pittsburgh terminal plans were mine. We had plans for an outlet to the seaboard, and if I were ousted and the plans should miscarry I know it would be said: 'Oh, these were not our plans; they were Joe Ramsey's.'

"It's for my life work, my reputation, I am fighting, and behind that is what ought to be behind every life insurance company, every railroad company, every corporation on earth, and that is, the remembrance that we, officers of any corporation, are only servants of the little man and the big one who has his money invested in the organization we may head.

"I have no open fight or secret fight with Mr. Gould. I shall be at the Broadway offices of the Wabash tomorrow, and I shall be happy to see Mr. Gould there if he comes, but I do not expect to call on him, nor am I expecting a visit from him."

Mr. Ramsey said that he had never met John D. nor William Rockefeller in his life, and he did not know personally whether they had a dollar in Wabash or not. Mr. Ramsey mentioned that it had been said he was guilty of lack of gratitude to George J. Gould, who had made him vice president and general manager.

"That statement is untrue," said Mr. Ramsey, "Mr. Ashley made me vice president and general manager, Mr. Ashley was instrumental in making me president to succeed him. Mr. Gould had nothing to do with my selection. I am under no obligations to him."

ONLY ONE SWIMMER IN WATER AT THE FINISH

Thirty-Four Men in the Annual Endurance Match Failed to Cross the Line.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Of 20 men who started today in the third annual endurance swimming match of the United States volunteer life saving corps, only one was in the water at the finish.

Alfred Brown of the College Point crew swam 15 miles, the entire distance, from the Brooklyn bridge to Steeplechase pier, Coney Island, and won the gold medal. His time was six hours, 22 minutes 20 seconds. Three others reached the engineers' dock at Fort Hamilton. They were J. J. Kennedy, J. D. White and John F. Cairns. C. J. Siegfried, a one-legged swimmer, and H. Kayasu, a Japanese, got as far as Fort Hamilton.

Nearly 2,000 persons greeted Brown when he stepped on the beach. For half an hour they had watched him battling against a strong tide off the Steeplechase pier in a vain effort to reach the iron pier nearby, which had been designated as the finishing point. In that time he did not gain an inch, and finally at 6:15 in the evening the committee stopped the race and ordered Brown into his boat.

NORRIS JURY DISAGREES.

Forty-Two Ballots Taken Without Result in the Detective Blackmail Case.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Sept. 17.—After being out 17 hours the jury in the John T. Norris blackmail case reported tonight that they could reach no agreement. For 6 ballots they stood six for acquittal and six for conviction.

Norris is one of the best-known detectives in the country, and was indicted for blackmailing saloonkeepers while he was in the employ of the Law and Order league. On a former trial of the case it was taken to the circuit court, and then to the supreme court, from which latter tribunal it was remanded back to the common pleas court for a new trial.

CUBAN RURAL GUARDS CLASH WITH POLICE OVER POLITICS

One Force Is Supporting Gen. Gomez's Candidacy While the Other is Composed of Partisans of the Government.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

HAVANA, Sept. 17.—The officials have been notified of a collision which took place between rural guards and police at Las Cruces. According to the official advices the police attacked the guards, by whom they were dispersed. The disturbance was due to political feeling, the police supporting the candidacy of General Gomez while the rural guards are partisans of the government.

There was a great demonstration of Liberals here tonight, the principal feature of which was a torchlight procession headed by Gen. Jose Miguel Gomez, the Liberal candidate for the presidency. There were 5,000 persons in line and the number of spectators was estimated at 100,000. Numerous excursion parties were run from interior points.

Though serious trouble was feared by the authorities there was not the slightest disorder.

LARKIN STARTS ANOTHER FIGHT

He Denounces the Hamilton Avenue Award as a Scandal and an Outrage.

WILL CONSULT ATTORNEYS

"To make the city pay $275,000 for a street improvement for which the owners of abutting property pay only $41,000 is a scandal and an outrage. If there is any way to stop it I am going to stop it. It is my business to look after the money of the city, and if there is any possible way to prevent the payment of this money by the city for the extension of Hamilton avenue I am going to do it. I don't care whether it is administration or anti-administration."

Controller Larkin made the above declaration of war last night against the award of the board of viewers on the proposed extension of Hamilton avenue, which Director Bigelow has indorsed.

Director Bigelow says that while the assessment against the city is heavy, he is satisfied with it. He claims the extension of Hamilton avenue, from Fifth avenue to Penn avenue, is going to be a big public improvement, and will open an important thoroughfare in the East End from Brushton and Wilkinsburg and territory beyond.

Indifferent to Bigelow.

Until yesterday Controller Larkin merely contented himself with criticising the verdict of the board of viewers in assessing the city for 84 per cent of the cost of the improvement. Last night, however, the controller declared he would not rest with a criticism, but would fight the thing to the end.

"I intend to consult an attorney, and will also talk with City Solicitor Rodgers about the matter," said Mr. Larkin. "I don't know whether there is any way I can stop it or not, but if there is any possible chance I am going to take that chance. I will fight this thing to the bitter end. Property that can pay only $41 609 out of a total of $316,682 is not worth improving. Hamilton avenue is only an obscure street, anyway. This improvement is intended to promote local, not general, interest.

"It means a tax of three-quarters of a mill or about that on the entire property of this city.

"It makes no difference to me who favors it. Three-fourths of the taxpayers of this city do not know where Hamilton avenue is, and its extension does not even remotely concern them. These people look to me to see they are fairly dealt with when they are financially interested in public matters, and I will not avoid the responsibility. I do not now know how I will go about it, but I will ask for all the data tomorrow, including the governing act of assembly, and go at it as I would any other matter of business.

Controller Opposes Bigelow.

"I had nothing to say about it before because Director Bigelow objected to the former awards, and I had no occasion to interfere. Now that he seems satisfied, I will see what I can do to stop it. It has, as I understand, been before three separate boards of viewers, one award being $72,000 against the city, the second $600,000 or thereabouts, and the last one $275,000, showing conclusively that there is and has been a wide divergence of views where there should be unanimity of thought and action, or nearly so. The law seems to have been framed to override the will of the people or to compel them to submit to an injustice as often as the greed of speculators makes it necessary to fleece them."

Two methods have generally been employed to defeat an objectionable assessment against the city for street improvements. The most popular method, which has been used effectively by Director Bigelow in the case of previous awards on the Hamilton avenue extension and other improvements, has been by having councils repeal the ordinance authorizing the improvement. The other method has been an appeal by the city to the courts. Neither of these two methods are hardly open to the controller, and he will try to originate some new way of thwarting this latest project of the administration.

POWER OF MONEY AND ITS PERILS

Dr. E. H. Ward Describes Tendency of Wealth to Contract Soul of Man.

SHOULD RESIST INFLUENCE

The Rev. Dr. E. H. Ward, rector of St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal church, Craft avenue and Forbes street, preached yesterday on "Money—Its Power." Dr. Ward's text was taken from St. Luke, xix:24: "How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God." Dr. Ward said in part:

Our Lord speaks often about money, oftener than about any other one thing. He nowhere condemns it. The man entrusted with five talents, who by trading doubled his capital, is commended, while the man with one talent, who hid his money in the earth, is condemned.

But He does use language of terrible energy when speaking of the danger of riches. "How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God! It is easier for a camel to go through a needle's eye than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God."

Undoubtedly our Lord considers that the possession of wealth carries with it great peril to the soul, and we will think of some of these dangers this afternoon.

The first peril of which I will speak is the tendency of wealth to narrow the vision of the soul to material things. As business expands and wealth increases, it absorbs more and more of man's time and thought. He has no time for self-culture, no time for social enjoyment, and when Sunday comes with its quiet and holy calm its hours must be given to resting his wearied body and recuperating its wasted energies. In the mad race for wealth men have lost sight of the real purpose of life, its highest pleasures and noblest objects. To eat and drink and sleep; to see the wheels of mill and factory go round and so much product prepared for the daily market; to watch the stock exchange and see that all surplus money is wisely invested. These things bring into play but a fraction of our nature and the sanctities still slumber within our being which make it most worth while to live.

Contracts the Sympathies.

A second peril of money is its tendency to contract the sympathies and dwarf the powers and qualities of the soul. It seems well-nigh incredible that ability to gratify the highest impulses of our nature should have a tendency, not to widen but to narrow man's sympathies and interests. When a man has amassed an ample fortune and has safe investments which produce an income sufficient to supply him and his family with all the comforts and luxuries of life, it seems natural that he would give more liberally not only of his money but of his time and personal influence to uplifting physically, morally and spiritually his less fortunate fellowmen. But look at the work of the church and charitable organizations, and where fad and fashion play no part how many persons of wealth do you find?

The increase of wealth separates man more and more from his fellowmen. Man is a social being, and no one can be separated from his fellows, from the great stream of humanity, without detriment to his moral and spiritual nature. He needs to mingle with men of all kinds and degrees, high and low, in order that his whole nature may become wider and more generous. "If a man love not his brother whom he hath seen," asks St. John, "how can he love God whom he hath not seen?" But he has not in any real sense seen his brethren and does not know enough about them to love or even feel interested in them.

The great commandment is that the chief business of life is "to love God with all our heart and mind and strength, and our neighbor as ourself." Even the desire to live, which is the progress of all human desires, must, if we are to follow the teaching and example of Jesus Christ, be subordinated to the desire to love.

Should Appreciate the Danger.

Now, when the circumstances of a life render it well nigh impossible to learn this lesson, surely we should all be able to see and appreciate the danger. "The genial current of the soul" is frozen at the very fountain. The faculties which enable him to see God in the nature and in the mind of man, find no proper exercise and are used only or chiefly in bookkeeping and studying the money market or extending trade. He may amass wealth and become a millionaire, but he has lost the glorious possibilities of manhood and arrested the development of his soul. Is all his wealth the price which he has paid for it? Across the centuries we hear the voice of the master asking: "What is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

A third peril arising from the possession of money is its tendency to engender selfishness and to render man insensible to the claims of his fellowman. With money comes power, and too often because of this power men grow arrogant and self important. Whatever money will purchase they consider as of right belonging to them. They purchase the services of their fellowmen and come at length to think of them not on account of their moral worth, but in the same way that they think of any other marketable commodity. And how hard and exacting the labor required!

Balzac has written a singular story entitled "The Magic Skin." This skin gave to him who had it the power of accomplishing every wish, but there was a condition attached to the gift, that with every gratification the skin shrank. It contracted and contracted until in it the fatal gift crushed its possessor. Money like that magic skin enables its possessor to gratify his desires, but how often it happens that with each selfish gratification the finer qualities of the soul are crushed. But this need not be so. We may "make friends of mammon;" we may be "rich unto God;" "rich in good works, ready to distribute, willing to communicate, laying up in store a good foundation against the time to come."

CONSTITUTION NEAR END.

Ancient Frigate in Constant Danger of "Turning Turtle," and Has to Be Bailed Out Continually.

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—The ancient frigate Constitution, familiarly known as "the first ship of the American navy," which has for years been one of the most valued possessions of the Charleston navy yard, is in danger of "turning turtle," and it is learned the good ship cannot last many years in its present state.

The frigate is leaking badly and the hold fills so rapidly it is necessary to use a power pump frequently. One of the attaches of the navy yard said today that the officials did not care to risk placing the ship in drydock to make repairs, as the vessel would crush with its own weight.

MARGOLIS' NECK BROKEN BY FALL

Plunges Down the Cellar Steps and His Body Is Found by Wife and Daughter.

MAN DIES AT POLICE STATION

Julius Margolis, aged 49, a machinist of 111 Dinwiddie street, fell down the cellar stairs at his home at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and broke his neck. He was found about 10 minutes later by his wife and daughter. Margolis complained of being dizzy. Mrs. Margolis was preparing breakfast and did not miss her husband until her daughter asked for him.

"Papa went to the cellar," remarked Mrs. Margolis.

As they did not hear him both went to the head of the cellarway and saw him lying at the foot of the stairs. Physicians were summoned and pronounced him dead from a broken neck.

A man supposed to be John McKeough, aged 53, of 120 Vorick street, Utica, N. Y., died at the Homeopathic hospital yesterday from shock received by falling at Fifth avenue and Chatham street. He was found unconscious by Policeman Costello and was taken to Central station. There it was discovered he had been drinking and that his nose was broken. He was sent to the hospital where the injury to his nose was attended to and he was then taken back to the station house. Later Turnkey Darragh noticed he was suffering from a hemorrhage and the man was returned to the hospital. It was found this time that his skull was fractured.

Patrick Roach, aged 26, of 1808 Clifton street, South Side, died in the South Thirteenth street police station yesterday. He had been arrested Saturday night, it being alleged he hit Charles Male during a discussion. At the hearing he was fined $10 and costs or 30 days to the workhouse. In default of the fine he was returned to his cell to await his removal to the workhouse today. About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Sergt. McShane heard him call for water and sent Officer Devine to get him a drink. The officer returned saying the prisoner was suffering from delirium. Medicine was administered and a messenger was sent for Dr. W. J. Riggs. When the physician arrived Roach was dead. While Roach was dying his father was searching for the magistrate to secure his son's release.

Michael B. Lamb, aged 39, of 603½ Walnut street, McKeesport, died at the Allegheny General hospital yesterday from injuries received Friday at the American bridge works at Ambridge. He was crushed by a crane.

Herman Lang, aged 7, son of Charles Lang of 211 Washington avenue, was run over by street car No. 125 of the Arlington avenue division yesterday morning and killed. The boy ran in front of the car at Washington and Arlington avenues, and before the motorman could slow up was run down.

Mrs. Elizabeth Stock, aged 26, who lived two and a half miles from Elizabeth, was found dead in bed yesterday morning.

DISLOCATES HIS HEART AT HIS OWN VOLITION

Freak Famous in Surgical Circles Is Lying at the Point of Death in Hospital After Accident.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., Sept. 17.—George Lomme of Chicopee, possibly the only man living who can completely dislocate his heart and change it from the left side to the right, lies at the point of death at Mercy hospital. He was found badly intoxicated near the electric car tracks in Mittineague last night, with one leg nearly severed.

Lomme can also dislocate his other internal organs and nearly all of his joints. Physicians who have examined him say he is a marvel, and several medical institutions, among them Harvard Medical college, have made offers to Lomme for his body, after death.

Lomme's friends say he has sold his body, but this he would never admit. He is about 35 years old and has been dislocating his heart for 20 years without serious effect.

SLAPPED IN SALOON ROW.

Fitzgerald Talks About Dane and Then Gets in First Blows in Fight.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—(Special.)—In the Belvidere concert saloon kept by Manager Coffroth, Willie Fitzgerald had a lively scrap with Battling Nelson and came off with more honors than he would probably wrest from the Dane in the ring. It seems that Fitzgerald had made some disparaging remarks about Nelson, and when the Dane approached him in a crowd of sports, Fitz thought he meant fight and promptly slapped Nelson's face. It is said Nelson was so surprised that before he recovered his astonishment Fitz had landed repeatedly on him. In fact, Nelson got all the worst of it until friends got in and separated them. When led away, Nelson said all he wanted was to get Fitz in a ring, when he would hammer him worse than he mauled Britt.

Cuff May Have Collared $15.

Albert Cuff, colored, of 1233 Liberty street was arrested last night at Fifth avenue and Smithfield street. Cuff is alleged to have taken $15 from a man two weeks ago.

ELKINS REPORTED BACK OF COLE YOUNGER'S TROLLEY LINE

West Virginia Senator Has Never Forgotten How the Famous Outlaw Once Saved Him from Death at Quantrell's Command.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

KANSAS CITY, MO., Sept. 17.—Cole Younger, the promoter of the electric railway from Kansas City to Lone Jack by way of Lees Summit, says money to finance the project is being furnished by eastern capitalists. Report says the greater amount of the capital is being furnished by Stephen B. Elkins of West Virginia. In this connection the story of how the Youngers saved the life of Senator Elkins is retold.

Elkins enlisted in the federal army. The Younger boys and Frank and Jesse James were members of the Quantrell band. Quantrell ordered Elkins turned over to a squad of men and "taken to the rear," which meant death. Cole Younger and Frank James met the party.

"Hello, Steve," said Frank James.

"Hello, Frank; hello, Cole," replied Elkins. When James and Younger found out what was about to happen, they promised faithfully to be responsible for the prisoner to Quantrell, and succeeded in prevailing upon the guards to turn him over to them. While the company was riding along leisurely with Frank James, Cole Younger and Elkins well to the front a bugle call was blown.

"We are going into a fight, Steve," said Younger. "About half a mile farther we are going to come to the forks of the road. We will take the right hand. You take the left or you are a dead man."

When the parting of the ways was reached, Elkins laid down flat on his horse's back and plunged the spurs in and got well out of danger before he was missed by any one except the men who connived at his escape.

Elkins never forgot this. After the Youngers had been sent to prison for life he was ever ready to aid them in any possible way. He has made many trips to St. Paul to intercede with the governor of Minnesota for them.

Mission Furniture.

For those who like novelty in anything, especially in furniture, the Mission designs will appeal strongly. Our line of Mission furniture covers a broad variety. And we consider the line the best to select from on account of the fact that we buy our Mission goods from many different manufacturers, not confining ourselves, as is the general rule, to one maker. All eyes, you know, do not see things alike, therefore it is best to have variety so that every eye may meet its fancy.

There are quite a number of odd pieces of Mission furniture that we will close out for considerably less than original retail prices, for instance—

No. 9913—Weathered oak mission suits, composed of settee, rocker and side chair, made extra heavy — formerly $30.00, the suite today for....$17.25

No. 6101—Mission settee, with reed seat and back—formerly $15.00, special today for....$10.00

No. 8634—Weathered oak cellarette—formerly $15.00, special today....$10.00

Now let the uses to which such pieces as above mentioned can be put flash through your memory. If either does not appeal to you we have plenty of others. These are only mentioned to show the reduced prices.

Parlor and Living-Room Tables—

A special line of mahogany tables, big range of sizes and shapes, just arrived in our Furniture Department. All show much study of new ideas, some have straight, others have curved legs. Don't recall ever having offered such high class tables for such prices—$8.00 each up to $35.00.

Monday, September 18, 1905.

A most satisfactory statement has been issued by the Westinghouse Air Brake Company, preliminary to the annual meeting, October 3. This is one of Pittsburgh's institutions of which it is proud and which has carried the name and fame of Pittsburgh to the farthest parts of the earth. It is one of the many that make Pittsburgh great. Their prosperity is the prosperity of this city and the region around about.

Much interest attaches to the struggle going on between Joseph Ramsey, Jr., and George J. Gould for possession of the Wabash. The struggle is unusual. On its result may depend the weal or woe of more than the principals who occupy the public attention. Here in Pittsburgh the interest is not merely passive, for the outcome may have important bearing on the transportation facilities of this greatest tonnage producer, which are now inadequate to meet demands.

European gossip continues busy with the changing viceroyalty in India and it develops there is some rejoicing over the prospect in the English social colony. Here are two horns to the dilemma and it will be interesting to note which will be officially taken. Was Lord Curzon objectionable because he insisted on the supremacy of the civil government, or was he in disfavor because the social lights did not approve the reign of himself and his vicereine? English politics have some peculiar curves that are not easy to understand.

In the light of the Vartanian case it is apparent our naturalized citizens may give us more trouble than they are worth. It is to be feared some of them come here and get naturalized for the sole purpose of returning to their native lands under American protection. We do not charge this against Vartanian, but there are others. Under the circumstances some system should be devised for the better protection of this country against citizenship that is not bona fide. Citizens in good faith are welcome, but citizens for trouble only, are not.

President Roosevelt is eager to have the plans for the Panama canal settled and the work begun in good earnest, says a news dispatch. This feeling of the president is shared by a large proportion of the American people. They have not desired to plunge hurriedly where serious mistakes might be made, but they are satisfied that investigation and preparation have been pretty well attended to, and they hope that with a decision by the consulting board on the type of canal to be built, the dirt should begin to fly. The canal must be built and the sooner it is done the better. The 20-foot level ought to be a fair compromise on type.

As the time draws near for a decision at the polls on the Poe amendment to the constitution of Maryland, the fight is waxing all the warmer. That the friends of the iniquitous measure are concerned about the outcome the drafting of Senator Gorman for a speaking tour shows that some desperate fighting must be done to carry it through. Senator Gorman is a foxy speaker, and will put the amendment in the strongest light, but from all we have heard and read of the situation the opposition to the amendment is too strong to be mastered by the influence of Gorman, who is credited with being the inspiration of the proposed measure.

William H. Berry, Democratic and Prohibition candidate for state treasurer, will begin a campaign speaking tour at Doylestown today. Mr. Berry is proud of his ability as a stump speaker and desires to show it to the people. He is not likely to make himself any votes, but he can enjoy the plaudits of the crowds and that is all he will get out of the campaign. Mr. Berry's theme is Pennsylvania and he has no good word to say about it. His forte is to complain against the state in which he resides and against the good people who reside here also. He does not like the tremendous majorities they have given against free trade and free silver, so he charges them with neglect of their state affairs. There are others of his ilk, but fortunately they are and have been in a hopeless minority in Pennsylvania.

Naming of Candidates.

Our Democratic contemporaries are not pleased with the result of the Republican primaries on Saturday. No one expected they would be, so nobody is disappointed. The gentlemen nominated by the Republican voters comprise too strong a ticket to please the Democratic-Citizens organs, so they resort to the old ruse of crying "slates" and "bosses." Devoid of the sense of humor they are apparently incapable of seeing the absurdity of their position.

Last spring, it will be remembered, the Hon. William Jennings Brennen was instructed, by a so-called Democratic county convention, to summon to his assistance four or more persons and to name candidates for county offices. For nearly two months Mr. Brennen carried this fearful responsibility and the Democratic party under his hat. Then he summoned four others and among them they named four Democrats as candidates for four offices in the gift of the county. One was named to placate the Post, one to please Col. Guffey, one as the friend of Controller Larkin and the fourth place was seized by the fourth committeeman himself, ignoring the one conspicuously faithful public officer, elected on the one and only successful Democratic-Citizens county ticket. All else was left blank.

Boss Bigelow evidently was ashamed of that exhibition of disregard for popular rights. When it came his turn to supply a part of the "reform" ticket, he hired a hall and arranged for a convention. Of course, primaries were not to be thought of, for they would give opportunity for dissenting voices. Boss Bigelow simply appointed faithful servitors from the payroll to act as delegates and give a semblance for more than one man dictation. The four Democrats were accepted and several new names suggested. That is the way the Democratic-Citizens ticket was started. It has not yet been completed.

It comes with good grace from the supporters of a ticket created in that manner to object to the nominations made in party primaries where every member of the party was permitted to vote. One might almost expect to hear from the Hon. William J. Brennen a protest against the "manipulation of the primaries." It may be expected when this Republican ticket is elected in November, the wise organs of Democracy will complain the Republican "bosses" influenced their friends to vote for the Republican candidates and "jammed through the slate."

Campaign Contributions.

Former Judge Alton B. Parker seizes on the testimony of George W. Perkins, before the insurance investigating committee as a corroboration of his charge, during last year's campaign, that corporations were making contributions to the Republican campaign for improper purposes. Mr. Parker now withholds the offensive allegations, except by implication, an allegation promptly met and emphatically refuted by President Roosevelt. An allegation utterly disproved, in the case of the big insurance companies, by the recommendation in the president's message of last December to bring them under strict federal supervision. Judge Parker's effort at reviving a calumny that helped to bury him under an avalanche of votes is chiefly unfortunate for himself.

Our always Democratic contemporary, the Post, also adverts to this matter, denouncing in unmeasured terms all contributions of money to Republican campaign funds. This is surprising only because the Post has recently been endeavoring to mask its Democracy by giving its support to the Lincoln party. In the matter of the campaign contributions the Post is more consistent in its inconsistency than its late standard bearer. The Post openly supported the Bryan attack on the currency which would have robbed insurance policyholders of half of their benefits. It also openly supported Bryan in his attacks on private property and on the supreme court as the embodiment of the law. Thus the Post has always been opposed to everything Republican and has a right to object to any Democrat contributing anything for Republican support. It can even claim the right to compare John McCall with Benedict Arnold because it is now, as it has ever been, true to the free trade, free silver, socialistic Democracy—including William H. Berry of Chester.

Judge Parker, however, assumes Perkins to have supported a charge made by himself that was not true. President Roosevelt by word and by deed has proven it untrue. The fact that a corporation contributed to the Republican campaign does not support Parker's charge in the least.

The Mormon Menace.

Signs accumulate of the nation's increasing interest in that politico-religious organization which we call the Mormon church. If it really constitutes a menace to American institutions, the people desire timely warning; if it is purely and simply a religious denomination, living within the laws of the land, then it is entitled to worship as it thinks best and there is no necessity for all this agitation. Senator Cullom in the North American Review indicts the Mormon church as a menace upon the following grounds: Its flagrant disregard of the law relating to polygamy and its hierarchy, which dictates courses of conduct to citizens at variance with the laws of the land, setting the tenents of the church above the Constitution of the United States.

While the manifesto of 1890 advised the members of the church to refrain from contracting polygamous marriages, everybody knows a majority of the 12 apostles of the church are today living in polygamous relations and the head of the church boasts five wives in different establishments. The claim is made, of course, that no new polygamous marriages have been contracted since the manifesto, and for a very good reason it is difficult for "Gentiles" to disprove the claim. All marriages take place in the secret temples wherein none but Mormons may set foot. But whether of not there are many new polygamous marriages, there are thousands of members living polygamously today with the full approval of the church authorities. It is this perfect willingness to break the laws of the land which makes Mormonism a menace to the nation, in Senator Cullom's opinion. The other charge, relating to the hierarchy, is proved to be a just one by almost daily occurrences. In their minutest material affairs Mormons are ruled absolutely by their church. Recently a couple of members who had made all preparations to engage in the salt production business were ordered, after they had invested considerable money in the enterprise, to abandon the idea because the president of the church desired a monopoly of the industry. Senator Kearns, in his memorable speech before the senate on the occasion of his retirement, touched upon this point and stated that no Gentile could do business in Utah unless he paid tribute, in some form or other, to the Mormon church. From the conclusions of men who have made a study of the subject, and men whose word we are accustomed to accept as true, Mormonism does constitute a menace, the removal of which is a live problem before the American people.

What Has Been Done?

Some days have passed since the discharge of an East End patrolman with the expressed opinion of the superintendent of police that he was not guilty of a cowardly assault on a defenseless woman. The public has not heard of the apprehension of the officer who committed that assault. The public, however, has not forgotten the affair and it is anxious to know what the superintendent of police is going to do about it. Defenseless women are not safe on the streets while there is a man of that kind on the police force, and the superintendent of police has expressed the opinion the scamp continues to wear his uniform.

During this administration the good people of Pittsburgh have been startled by "plain clothes" policemen dragging householders from their own premises and locking them up without opportunity of identification, and by an assault committed by a policeman in uniform against a weak woman. What can they expect next? Is the bureau of police under its present management of any value to the community, or is it a menace? These questions recur in the public mind at intervals and there is no satisfactory answer by official statement nor by official action.

Hypocrisy of Ohio Democracy.

The Democratic candidate for governor of Ohio seems to be running on the platform of "mum's the word." In spite of proddings he remains silent on the important issues of the campaign. Presumably he stands for the enactment of more stringent liquor laws, yet his record on this subject will not bear scrutiny of a satisfying character. He is supported by the Democratic party merely to prove its continuous record for inconsistency. Through all the years of its existence in Ohio it has constantly harped against what it was pleased to designate as sumptuary laws. This year it virtually confesses the wickedness of its past life and comes snivelling before the people as the only party standing as the guardian of purity of homes.

The Prohibitionists have a ticket of their own, and are consistently adhering to the principles of their party, but the Anti-Saloon league, for some occult reason, is supporting Pattison. Those who are opposing the re-election of the present governor of Ohio on the plea that he is too favorable to the saloons are certainly straining elastic consciences to the last tension, for the Brannock law which he signed has done much to abate the evils of liquor selling in the large cities. Large sections in the residence districts of cities have been cleaned up under the provisions of this law, and some 500 saloons have been compelled to either quit business or move out from among homes and locate in business districts. Surely this is accomplishment enough to satisfy any reasonable advocate of regulation and control of the business in question. All the temperance legislation on the statute books, the Dow, the Beal and the Brannock laws, are of Republican initiation and enactment, and just as sure as the Democratic party goes in these measures will become useless. Gov. Herrick today stands for all that is practicable and just in temperance legislation. The professions of the Democratic party for more drastic measures are hypocritical to the last degree. There are many Democrats who will not support Pattison, and they will offset those Republicans who desert the Republican cause this year.

With a genuinely nominated ticket the Republicans of Allegheny county will press forward to victory.

Speaking of state platforms, will the Post kindly explain the attitude of its parties on the tariff?

REVISION OF TARIFF IS LOUDLY DEMANDED

Leading Republican Newspapers Echo Sentiments of The Gazette on Subject.

From the Titusville Herald, Rep.

We publish elsewherg in this issue of the Herald an editorial from the Pittsburgh Gazette, a stalwart protectionist newspaper, advocating a revision of the tariff by the next congress. The Gazette takes the position that tariff revision is bound to come before long, that the country has outgrown the present law, that it should be modernized to meet conditions as they exist today, and that now is the time to do the work, when times are good and the Republican party in power.

The Gazette is right. If the tariff revision is much longer postponed, it may fall into Democratic hands, than which nothing imaginable could be more disastrous in its effect upon business. Everybody remembers the hard times following the enactment in 1894 of the Wilson bill, when the Democrats got control of the government and by tariff tinkering plunged the country into one of the worst panics of its history.

The Gazette editorial has attracted widespread attention and caused surprise, not to say consternation, in the ranks of the "stand-patters," but it is undeniably true that tariff revision sentiment has grown rapidly of late as will be made evident when congress gets together next winter. In this connection it will be recalled that President Roosevelt in his messages of 1901 and 1902 strongly urged a revision of the tariff, and this demand will probably be renewed in his message to congress in December.

Significant Signs.

From the Cleveland Leader, Rep.

Evidence of the growing demand for tariff revision accumulates. The editorial from the Pittsburgh Gazette which we print on the fourth column of this page is significant of the movement within the Republican party for a revision by a Republican congress. The Gazette, always protectionist and published in one of the strongest protectionist communities in the country, calls for a readjustment of many schedules, some of which it pronounces 100 per cent too high.

The reciprocity convention in Chicago was not born of idle agitation, neither is the "Iowa idea," the stirring among northwestern exporters, or the restlessness of New England Republicans. These are signs which it behooves members of congress to read. Retirement suggests itself for the blind. We recall a number of indications which the acute servant of the people must have observed.

The most striking sign is the attitude of the occupant of the White House. We make bold to say that Mr. Roosevelt has his eye peeled and his ear to the ground. There were over 7,600,000 votes last fall to prove it.

Get Down to Business.

From the Ohio State Journal, Rep.

The following from the Pittsburgh Gazette, a prominent Republican journal at the headquarters of protection, thus speaks of revision of the tariff:

"In this broad country with its abounding prosperity there are unmistakable signs of unrest. The common people, grown rotund with fatness, have forgotten the lean years and are demanding a change in the tariff laws. There is no better time than the present to undertake revision. This Fifty-ninth congress of the United States is peculiarly fitted for the task and ought to perform the duty. Revise the tariff now and then let it alone for the next ten years."

There are some journals that have regarded protection and "stand-pattism" as synonymous, but this great advocate of protection is not one of them. The present Dingley rates, or at least some of them, are an abuse of protection and should be changed as speedily as possible.

The fact that some of the present rates were put high merely to trade in making reciprocal agreements and have resulted in a traffic that have enabled home producers to sell abroad cheaper than they do at home, ought to be enough to convince any thoughtful man that the old law should be revised. There is hardly a prominent newspaper in the country but what advises it, and the people are coming that way strong. Some of the Republican leaders will have to get down off of their high horses and get to business.

Fossilization Not Desirable.

From the Buffalo Commercial, Rep.

The Pittsburgh Gazette stands for the policy of protection, but it agrees with President Roosevelt in thinking that good statesmanship and the necessity of extending our foreign markets will compel the Republican party at an early day to draw the line between "stability of the protective principle" and fossilization or petrifaction of a certain collection of schedules. When the time comes no doubt Republican statesmanship will prove equal to the task.

A Modernized Tariff.

From the New York Sun, Rep.

Since the Sun called attention to the remarkably clear and significant distinction which President Roosevelt in his annual messages has drawn between the stability of the protective principle and the fossilization of the tariff schedules, there has been a good deal of discussion of the subject in the American press. The comments proceeding from different points of view are of an exceedingly instructive character. They show the progress which public sentiment, irrespective of party, has made toward the idea of revision for the purpose of modernization.

If it is Mr. Roosevelt's opinion that the time has arrived for vitalizing the schedules and adjusting rates to present conditions, he is likely to have the support of many of the most thoroughgoing Republican protectionists between the four corners of the republic. The noteworthy declaration of the Gazette of Pittsburgh exemplifies the attitude of the stalwart protectionists who prefer that the inevitable revision shall be made by a safely Republican and safely protectionist congress during a safely Republican and safely protectionist administration. How easy is the transition from the standpatter to the reasonable revisionist!

WONDERFUL AMERICA HAS ANOTHER CHARM

Frenchman Discovers Unique Comparison for This Country's Great Wealth.

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Americans coming back from Europe have all sorts of things to tell of what the people on that side of the Atlantic think of America as a nation, but one of the most unique stories is told by a gentleman from Pittsburgh, who spent a large part of the past summer abroad. He was talking with a Frenchman one day, when the latter said:

"Yours is a wonderful country. Do you know that you have one corporation in America which represents more dollars in its capital stock than there have been minutes since the birth of Christ?"

That certainly seemed an exaggeration, thought the Pittsburgher, and he didn't believe the statement until he figured it out for himself. Of course, the corporation in question was the United States Steel Corporation.

With paper and pencil, the traveling Pittsburgher soon learned that the Frenchman was correct. He began by multiplying the number of seconds in an hour by the number of hours in a day, getting a total of 1,440, which, multiplied by 365, gave him 525,600 as the number of seconds in a year. This, multiplied by 1905, gave a total of 1,001,268,000. But the figurer was not yet satisfied, and he added the minutes consumed by the extra days in the 475 leap years, and his grand total was 1,002,042,000, still far behind the number of dollars the United States Steel Corporation represents. This is only given as a sample of the things figures will do to a man when he gets mixed up with them.

Bad Mix-Up in Politics.

Events of last week have caused a very bad mix-up in the political situation of Gotham. The bolt of the Citizens makes it practically certain that the Tammanyites will have a walk-over, and even Mr. Jerome's ambition to succeed himself as district attorney now seems vain. What sort of politics it was that brought about all this it is pretty hard to figure out, except on the basis that you couldn't expect much else from the so-called reformers. Mr. Cutting was undoubtedly willing to go through with the fusion game, provided he was allowed to name the ticket and make all the other organizations trailers, but when he couldn't have his way he promptly took his little blue dishes and went home.

Jerome Is Hard Hit.

District Attorney Jerome gets the worst knock from Cutting's bolt. Had there been a reasonable strong fusion ticket he was practically assured of re-election. It was also pretty certain that Tammany would have indorsed him. But since Tammany has nothing to fear it is not likely that it will now put Jerome on its ticket, and that gentleman is left out in the cold with only his independent canvass on his hands. He may be put on the ticket to be put up by the Republicans and Municipal Ownership league, but this is not probable. He is not particularly friendly with Mr. Odell, and certainly the Hearst branch of the fusionists is against him with all its force. Mr. Jerome may, therefore, count upon a considerable leisure for the next few years.

Looks Easy for Tammany.

The failure of the fusionists to get together makes things look mighty easy for Tammany these days. At best there was no certainty that the fusionists could win. The Tammanyites have been "laying low" the past two years, and there have been no great scandals connected with the administration of Mayor McClellan. Consequently the people have become apathetic, and it would have been an uphill fight at best. New York is a Democratic city beyond question, and the majority of the people are satisfied with the present regime, so there can be little hope of a change until something happens to show them that the Tiger is ready to do things again. Then an anti-Tammany movement will win.

His Reputation Too Good.

George Ade feels called upon to return to his slang. He has said as much, despite the fact that he had hoped to make "The Bad Samaritan" a gem of perfect English. But it wasn't what the people expected after seeing Ade's name on the bills, and he discovers that a man cannot jump from under a reputation at a moment's notice. Another thing Mr. Ade discovered last week was that his reputation was uncomfortably good. The dramatic critics all took a shot at his latest play, and the burden of their song was that it would have been a hit had it been written before "The County Chairman" and "The College Widow," but with these two in mind, the new play was mediocre. Mr. Ade is expected to live up to the pace he has set for himself, which ought to be punishment enough for one man's sins.

Secret of Bryan's Quest.

William Jennings Bryan is going abroad again. When he returned from his last foreign trip he said that he had gained possession of an idea. He never let the public know what it was. SOME GOOD STORIES OF PITH AND MOMENT

Gossipy Chat and Anecdote of Entertaining and Instructive Character.

The London correspondent of the Louisville Courier-Journal writes that "few people are aware that the original of 'Little Dorrit' is still living. She is now 82 years of age, but still active, and of all things in the long life that lies behind her is proudest of the honor conferred upon her by Charles Dickens. Miss Mary Ann Cooper is her name, but in her maiden days, when she first became acquainted with Dickens, she was a Miss Milton. Her father lived at Sudbury, some 18 miles from London, and Dickens was a frequent visitor there. He bestowed the nickname of 'Little Dorrit' on Miss Milton, and in 1855 told her that he was going to write another book which he intended to call 'Little Dorrit' and that he should put her name in it."

Politics Superior to Hunger.

City Solicitor Bruce of Cleveland once had an opportunity of realizing the supremacy of politics even over hunger.

He was dining one evening at his home when the bell rang. His servant went to the door and returned with the message that a hungry man solicited the wherewithal to curb a ravenous appetite. Impressed by such a strange request, he bade the servant to arrange a cold box. The dinner went on.

Armed with the necessities of life, the servant returned to the waiting man and casually mentioned that Mr. Bruce told to give the food to him.

"Who did you say?" asked the man in a tone audible to Mr. Bruce in the dining-room.

"I said Mr. Bruce," replied the servant.

"Not Mr. Bruce, the Democrat?"

"I think he is a Democrat," was the servant's answer.

"Well," said the hungry man, throwing down the box, "I don't want this. I wouldn't take anything from a Democrat if I had to starve, and you can tell him so. I am a Republican."—Cleveland Leader.

Takes the Discard.

Miss Caroline Powell of Boston is the only woman wood engraver in America. Miss Powell was a pupil of Timothy Cole, and at a dinner recently she said of her master:

"Mr. Cole had a horror of stingy persons. He was continually railing against such people, continually pointing out to us glaring examples of meanness and greed.

"He said one day that he had heard that morning of the meanest woman in the world.

"She called before breakfast at the house of a neighbor of his and said:

"'Madam, I see that you have advertised in the papers for a cook.'

"'Yes, I have, returned the other, 'but surely you are not after the place?'

"'No,' said the stranger, 'but I only live two blocks away from you, and since I need a cook myself, I thought you might send to me all the applicants you reject.'"—Kansas City Journal.

A Comprehensive Report.

When it was first arranged, nearly 50 years ago, to have postmasters send in quarterly reports, many queer documents were received. One, which is still on file in the postoffice department, came from the little town of Waterford, Ill., and is as follows: "July the 9, 1856. Master James Buchanan, president of Unfied States—Dear Sur Bean required by the instructions of the postoffice to report quarterly. I now foolil that pleasin duty by reportin as follows. Senator Allison's Caution.

Senator Allison, who, it appears, is noted for the caution which characterizes his utterances, was seated in a railway car gliding through Iowa when his traveling companion directed his attention to a flock of sheep. "I see they have begun shearing," he remarked. The senator gazed thoughtfully for a moment at the shorn lambs, and reluctantly admitted, "They certainly have sheared 'em on this side."—Harper's Weekly.

A Plausible Explanation.

A Glasgow holiday-maker was brought up on a charge of drunk and disorderly.

"What have you got to say for yourself?" said the magistrate. "You look respectable, and ought to be ashamed to stand there."

"I'm very sorry, sir, but I came up in bad company from Gleska," humbly replied the prisoner.

"What sort of company?"

"A lot of teetotalers," was the startling response.

"What, sir!" cried the bailie (a teetotaler) in rage. "Do you mean to say that abstainers are bad company; I think they are the best of company for such as you, sir!"

"Beggin' your pardon," answered the prisoner, "ye're wrang, for I had a bale mutchkin of whusky an' I had to drink it a' mysel'."—Birmingham Post.

How the Tramp Got the Ring.

At the Union League club the other evening the conversation of several of the members turned to the subject of graft. One of the party told the following story, which he had heard from the lips of James B. Dill, whose recent speech on "Graft" at Oberlin college impressed the entire country:

"The hero is a tramp of an alert, unscrupulous, bold mind that makes grafting successful.

"He was walking down a city street one day when he saw a little boy stoop and pick up something. He crossed over to the boy quickly.

"'You have made a find, my lad!' he said.

"'Yes, sir,' said the innocent boy, 'I have found a silver ring.'

"'I thought so,' said the tramp. 'It's the one I just dropped. Now ain't it lucky I had my name cut in it?'

"'What is your name?' said the boy, suspiciously.

"'Sterling, lad.'

"'Take it, then. It's yours,' said the boy, handing over the ring with a disappointed air."—Los Angeles Express.

The Explanation Explains.

The Buffalo Express suggests that Pittsburgh is on the way to the grave because its birth-rate has decreased for 15 years and for the first quarter of this year there were more deaths than births. Surely, Pittsburgh is one of the liveliest of corpses. It is generally understood that few families live in Pittsburgh if they can get into the suburbs. This explains the low birth-rate.—Jamestown Journal.

The Stork is Busy Enough.

No Accommodations for Dogs.

Three theatrical people walked into the Hotel Lincoln last night. Each had a bull pup, and each put his name on the register.

"I want a room for three for $3 a day," said the spokesman of the party.

"What do you expect to do with the other three?" asked Clerk C. J. Utley, as he glanced at the canines.

"Oh, you expect to take with us do you, eh?" said one of the pretended rubes.

"Not at all, my dear sir," replied the clerk. "But I am obliged to force it upon your mind that we have no rooms for 6 for each person; we have no rooms for three persons, and we cannot accommodate three four-legged actors at any price."

And the three guests and their dogs walked out.

Odd Fellows Go to Philadelphia.

A special train on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad yesterday morning carried several hundred Pittsburgh members of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and their friends to Philadelphia to participate in the annual meeting of the sovereign grand lodge. Hundreds of visitors reached Philadelphia yesterday to attend divine services which were held in several churches for the benefit of the city's guests. A big reception will be held in Lulu Temple today and it was with a view of attending this that the majority of the Pittsburghers were anxious to be on hand early. The parade which will be held tomorrow promises to be one of the largest ever held by the order.

Many degrees will be conferred and several thousand dollars will be divided as prizes for competitive degree work. A military ball is to be held and patriarchs militant display drills will prove attractive to members. The committee in charge of the pilgrimage of the local Odd Fellows consists of C. Gloquette, H. A. Hoffman, W. W. Fink, A. J. Stewart, Robert Mollis, I. H. Taylor, George Boone, W. L. Heiston, J. S. Mitchell.

What Is Tainted and What Clean?

The net result of the assault which has been made all along the line upon what is called "tainted money" seems to be that money contributed by John D. Rockefeller to any worthy purpose is open to question. How about the bequests, the annual subscriptions, or the occasional subscriptions of those whose fortunes had a beginning in fraudulent land deeds, in jumped claims, in shoddy army clothing, in outthroat mortgages, in paper shoes, in all forms of national, state, municipal and commercial graft, in advantage taken of the weakness or confidence of others—in the thousand and one "sharp practices" that have been common in this fair land for the last hundred years? Are those to be accepted if the Rockefeller money shall be rejected? The Rev. Dr. Gladden and his colleagues certainly owe it to their churches and to the public to answer these questions.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

GETS CONTRACT FROM BRITAIN

Westinghouse Company Will Supply Apparatus for Lighting Woolwich Arsenal.

LARGE CUBAN ORDER ALSO

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The Westinghouse interests have secured an interesting contract from the British government and are also in receipt of another batch of orders for various equipment to be installed in English municipal and private electric traction and lighting systems. A requisition has also been received for different electrical machinery to be shipped for use on one of the largest sugar plantations in Cuba.

The British contract, which was allotted to the British Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, Limited, calls for considerable apparatus to serve as lighting equipment for the huge arsenal at Woolwich. The other English order comprises a big one for generating machinery to be put down in the big Willesden plant, which furnishes light and power for the West End of London.

The Cuban contract, which was taken by the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company of Pittsburgh, through Hugh Kelly & Co. of New York, is for a complete electrical plant to be erected on the Jatibonico plantation, located in the middle of the island on the route of the Cuba Eastern railroad.

This gigantic sugar enterprise is being carried out by Sir William Van Horne and his Canadian associates. The sugar factory will have the most complete electrical equipment of its description in all the West Indies, and considerable economies will be effected, it is expected, by the utilization of electric energy over steam power, which is the prevailing mode of operating sugar mills in Cuba.

The apparatus ordered will include two 270 kilowatt, 500 volt, direct current dynamos and a similar number of shunt-wound motors of 250 horse-power capacity each for driving vertical centrifugal pumps. There will also be shipped a complete switchboard, pump, motor, panel and wiring material, lamps, etc.

Mr. Doran has been appointed manager of the Allis-Chalmers Company's power department, in which capacity he will have charge of the company's commercial affairs pertaining to reciprocating steam engines, steam and hydraulic turbines, condensers, gas engines, blowing engines for iron and steel blast furnace work, and rolling mill engines. His headquarters will be in Milwaukee.

VICTIM OF "HAUNTED OAK" TRAGEDY IS IDENTIFIED

She Was Working Girl Who Had Gone to Meet Brother After Leaving Home on Account of Trouble.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The body of the young woman found under what is known as the "Haunted Oak" just off Pelham road, in the Bronx, Saturday, was identified today as that of Augusta Pfeiffer, 22 years old, whose home was in Pelham road, only a few hundred yards from the spot where her body lay.

She was the stepdaughter of William Pfeiffer, who was also her uncle, her mother's first husband having been Pfeiffer's brother. Owing partly to a quarrel with her mother over a trivial matter the girl left home three weeks ago and had been living with a family in the lower part of the Bronx.

Two weeks ago Augusta returned to her home to get some clothing she had left. She took away part of it and made an appointment to meet her brother Paul last Wednesday evening in Pelham road, near the place where her body was found, to get the remainder of her belongings. Paul kept the appointment but his sister did not appear.

RUSSIAN TARIFF FAILS IN EFFECT

Imports from the United States Suffer But Little from the Penal Tax.

STATISTICS TELL THE STORY

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 19, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17.

The recent announcement that the Russian government has ordered that the levying of discriminating import duties on a number of articles, the products of the United States, be discontinued, lends some interest to the figures below, presented by the department of commerce and labor through its bureau of statistics, showing the total imports into Russia from the United States during the calendar years 1900-1904, inclusive, as well as the imports during the period 1900-1903 into Russia from the United States of the articles affected by the adverse tariff legislation.

The application of the higher discriminating rates dates back to the beginning of the year 1901, when, in retaliation of the countervailing duty imposed upon sugar of Russia origin in accordance with section 5 of the Dingley tariff, the Russian minister of finance ordered the application of the penal tariff rates to imports of manufactures of cast iron, of hand tools, machinery, and numerous other articles classed under the general head of manufactures of iron and steel. These articles, which were subject until then to the same conventional rates as were paid by like articles coming from Germany and other European countries, became subject to rates from 30 to 50 per cent higher.

In May of the same year an order of the Russian minister of finance raised the rates on white rosin, pine pitch and brewers' pitch by 20 per cent, and that on velocipedes by 30 per cent, which higher rates have prevailed since.

Questioned the Origin.

In order to be able to determine the origin of the articles affected, the Russian government also ordered the presentation of certificates of origin in case the goods bore no trademarks or other proofs of their real origin.

It is interesting to note that the total imports into Russia from the United States, as shown by the official trade returns of the Russian government, show but little the effects of the adverse tariff legislation. Thus the total imports from this country are stated by the Russian returns as follows:

1900	$22,748,000
1901	17,984,000
1902	20,574,000
1903	32,637,000

Preliminary figures for the year 1904, showing the imports from the United States into Russia over the European frontier only, are $52,163,000. The corresponding figures of the bureau of statistics, showing the total exports from this country to Russia during the same calendar years, are as follows:

1900	$ 8,664,270
1901	7,207,955
1902	13,835,963
1903	18,904,548
1904	17,822,356

No Serious Effects.

While the figures of the two governments, measuring the same trade movement for the same period, show wide discrepancies, neither of them discloses any serious effect of the above named discriminations upon the growth of the general trade movement. The main reason for this phenomenon is that the bulk of imports into Russia from the United States is made up of raw cotton, the imports of which from this country for the years in question appear to have been as follows:

1900	$18,417,000
1901	12,467,000
1902	13,595,000
1903	24,758,000
1904	24,066,000

By comparing the values of the cotton imports with those of the total imports into Russia from this country, it is seen that the larger or smaller size of the total import figures for the respective years depends mainly upon the magnitude of the figures showing the cotton imports from the United States during the same periods.

Imports Have Increased.

An analysis of the figures showing the imports from the United States of the various articles affected by the discriminating tariff legislation furthermore shows that these imports have, on the whole, increased during the period in question. Thus, the imports of manufactures of cast iron increased from $19,-866 in value during the year 1900 (which, for purposes of this comparison, may be taken as a normal year) to $45,722 in 1903. The imports of hand tools, which were $15,815 in value in 1900, increased to $64,-582 in 1903. Those of machinery increased from $228,529 in 1900 to $338,694 in 1903, while the imports of the various articles under the general head of manufactures of iron and steel increased from $45,373 in 1900 to $363,555 in 1902 and fell off to $67,555 during the following year. The same is true of bicycles, the imports of which, from $14,836 in 1900, increased to $42,087 in 1902, but fell to $30,377 during the following year. The imports of articles under the general head of naval stores more than doubled—from $125,552 in 1900 to $404,236 in 1903. The combined figures of imports from the United States of the articles subject to discriminating duties show an increase from $501,558 in 1900 to $951,106 in 1903.

THOMAS F. RYAN TO SOON HAVE A PRIVATE CHAPLAIN

Country Home Has a Chapel Where the Rev. Father J. M. White Will Preside.

(By Private Wire to The Gazette.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Thomas F. Ryan's chaplain, the Rev. Father J. M. White, formerly curate of St. Kyran's Roman Catholic church, in the diocese of St. Johns, N. F., will soon enter upon his duties in Suffern, N. Y., where Mr. Ryan has a country home.

The office of private chaplain to Americans is a rare one, although there have been several in this country. It is customary for the pope to assign to those posts a priest who, on account of ill health or of the infirmities of old age, is not able to attend to more active duties.

To Mr. and Mrs. Ryan the pope has given the right to have a private oratory, with all special privileges and honors attached. They have a chapel joined to their house in Suffern and also an oratory in their house in No. 60 Fifth avenue.

URGES LOWER TARIFF ON AMERICAN MACHINERY

United States Minister to Argentina Making a Fight for Reduction of Duty on Repair Parts.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The following statement bearing on the steps being taken by this government in seeking an adjustment of the proposed high rate of duty on repair parts for agricultural machinery imported into the Argentine Republic, was made at the state department today:

"The American minister to the Argentine Republic, is, under the president's direction, acting promptly and energetically in the matter of trying to secure a satisfactory adjustment of the proposed high rate of duty on repair parts for agricultural machinery brought into Argentina in separate shipments. Advices received at the state department say that yesterday the American minister and the Argentina minister of finance discussed the question in an amicable way. The probable effect of the proposed clause in the tariff was considered and the injury it might work to Argentina farmers and importers was pointed out.

"The minister of finance expressed himself as favorable to such modification of the clause as will satisfy the importers in the Argentine Republic. The minister of finance also stated that he would be present at a meeting of the senate committee in charge of the tariff bill on Monday or Tuesday. The importing interests will also be strongly represented at this meeting for the purpose of stating their side of the case. The leading importers express the belief that the matter will be arranged in a satisfactory manner."

The Death Roll

Funeral of Dr. James H. K. Duff.

The funeral services over the remains of Dr. James H. Kirk Duff, who died Saturday evening, will be held this evening at his late residence, 306 Halket street. Dr. Duff, who was captain of Company F, Eighteenth regiment, N. G. P., will be buried with military honors in Homewood cemetery tomorrow.

Capt. James H. Kirk Duff.

Dr. Robert Brown Hammer.

Dr. Robert Brown Hammer died yesterday afternoon at the Pittsburgh hospital from septic peritonitis. He was one of the best-known physicians and surgeons in Westmoreland county. His health began to fail four years ago and several operations were performed, but through his wonderful vitality he was able to practice his profession until 10 days ago. Dr. Hammer was a son of the late Jeremiah Hammer, a farmer, and was born in Hempfield township, adjoining South Greensburg, in 1839. He was graduated from the Greensburg High school, and in 1882 from the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania. He began practice in Greensburg and was elected coroner of Westmoreland county in 1884. He ran on the first Republican ticket that was ever elected in the county. For several years prior to his death he was state quarantine officer under the supervision of the state board of health. He married Miss Minnie Mechlin, who survives him, with one son, Stanley Hammer. He also leaves two brothers, Dr. William J. Hammer and Theodore M. Hammer, and two sisters.

John Gibb.

John Gibb, aged 36, died last evening at the Passavant hospital. He was born in Scotland, and came to this country 12 years ago, settling in Braddock, where he was employed as an engineer at the Carnegie steel works. PARKER STILL HARPS ON FUNDS

Ex-Candidate Talks About Insurance Companies' Campaign Contributions.

A MEMORY OF LAST YEAR

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ESOPUS, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Former Chief Judge Alton B. Parker, last year the Democratic candidate for president of the United States, today referred to the charges made by him in the presidential campaign last fall, that corporation funds were being used in aid of the Republican campaign. In relation to the statement made by Vice President George W. Perkins of the New York Life Insurance Company before the legislative committee investigating the insurance business to the effect that President John A. McCall of that company had caused a contribution of about $50,000 to be made last year to the Republican national campaign fund, Judge Parker said:

I believe I ought to say now that there is no political excitement to distract the public attention that the president of the New York Life was not the only such contributor. The officers of other great life insurance companies, such as the Equitable and the Mutual, also contributed from the policy holders' funds for campaign purposes last year.

What has been proved to the case of the New York Life will undoubtedly be proved in the other cases. The facts exist, and honest and able counsel backed by an honest committee will undoubtedly bring them out for the public good.

Says There Are Others.

Were there an investigation of railroad, manufacturing and other corporations it would be found that these life insurance offices were not the only corporation officers who put their hands into the treasury and took out moneys belonging to widows and orphans to help secure a partisan triumph.

That their acts were unlawful and their purposes corrupt, goes without saying. They intended to have the money used, as it was, to corrupting the electorate. Mr. Perkins makes the point that Mr. John A. McCall, the president of the New York Life, is a Democrat. Apparently he would have the public assume that when Mr. McCall unlawfully and wrongfully contributed these funds—the company's share probably as a member of the underwriting syndicate—it was evidence of political virtue, rather than misconduct.

The truth about it is, and I say it without feeling, but emphatically, that men like McCall have no political convictions that stand in the way of their personal advantage. Such men desire the triumph of that party which will better serve their personal financial interests and will—for contributions, past, present and future—continue to protect those interests by lenient legislation and by pretense at execution of law which shall be tenderly blind to all their offenses. That party they espouse in the board room, and contribute to it of the moneys they hold in trust and, occasionally a little of their own. The underlying principles which divide the great mass of the people into parties have no effect on such men. Their one inquiry is, will the party organization in its hour of triumph remember our generosity, and respond to our demands? Of course the organization does remember, for it expects a similar contribution next time. And the expectation is not in vain. Last year was not the first time. Such contributions had been made before in national, state and municipal elections.

Declares Officials Are Rewarded.

The officials responsible for these raids upon the treasuries of corporations have received their reward in unfettered management of life insurance corporations, in unembarrassed raids upon the public through trusts condemned by both common and statute law; in refusal to punish criminally the officers of railroad and other corporations violating the laws; and in statutory permission to manufacturing corporations to levy tribute on the people.

There can be no hope of checking the unlawful aggressions of officers of great corporations so long as they may thus form a quasi partnership with the organization of the dominant political party. For in the hour when the administrative official seeks to punish the offender he is reminded by the head of the organization of the magnitude of the contributions of the corporations.

There is, however, something worse, if possible, than the escape of such offenders from justice. It is the gradual demoralization of voters and the dulling of the public conscience caused by the efforts to make these vast sums of money procure the ballots they were intended to procure, corruptly and otherwise.

It is not my purpose to claim that the Democratic party, subjected to the temptation which has overcome the other party during the last few years, would have acted differently. Mere party advantage should not be sought from the disclosures made in this investigation. But the facts should be diligently sought, that the people may become so aroused that they will insist upon legislation making it a criminal offense for officers to contribute corporate funds for political purposes and depriving the apparently successful candidates of their offices.

Efforts in that direction have been making in different states since November last, and particularly in this state. But the Republican organization would not consent to it, so the legislature defeated the bills. And the organization never will consent until aroused public sentiment shall threaten legislators with political oblivion who fail to enact effective laws upon the subject.

HUNDREDS OF TONS OF BRIDGE MATERIAL LEAVING AMBRIDGE FOR JAPAN

Seven thousand tons of structural bridge work is being shipped by the American Bridge Company from its plant at Ambridge to Japan. The material is to be used in the construction of bridges on the Imperial government railways in the mikado's empire and upon the Keifu railroad in Korea, which is being reconstructed and extended by the Japanese.

This is the largest shipment of structural steel ever sent to the orient. To transport it to the Pacific coast will require nine trains of 25 cars each. The first train left Ambridge on September 1, and the material has been sent out at the rate of a trainload a week. The trains are taken to Chicago over the Pennsylvania lines, and thence to Tacoma via the Burlington and Northern Pacific.

The freight bill for this immense shipment will reach in round numbers $100,000. The order is being handled by the United States Steel Products Export Company of New York, which handles all the export trade of the United States Steel Corporation.

The railroads in Japan and Korea are being built on a standard which equals that of American lines, and the material used in the bridges is of the highest grade, and follows up-to-date specifications. The present order is for bridge work for 350 structures varying in length from 12 feet to 203 feet.

CAMPAIGN FUNDS MAY BE RETURNED

Attorney General Expected to Sue for Money Contributed by New York Life.

BELONGS TO POLICYHOLDERS

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Sept. 17.—There is a strong probability of suits being brought against officers of the New York Life Insurance Company by Attorney General Mayer to force the restitution to policyholders of $150,000 or more contributed to Republican campaign funds, as admitted by George W. Perkins before the insurance investigation committee in New York City last Friday. Attorney General Mayer today refused to either deny or admit that it was his intention to bring such suits, but an intimate friend of his here told your correspondent that such suits were quite likely.

"The only knowledge I have are the newspaper reports of the testimony given by Mr. Perkins," said the attorney general. "My course will not be determined until I receive an official copy of the testimony, then I will decide what action may be taken in the matter."

A friend of Mr. Mayer who is in a position to know, says it will not be at all strange if suits are brought. This friend says: "It is quite true that the only knowledge Judge Mayer has is that obtained from the newspaper accounts, but he knows that these reports are substantially correct. I know positively that he would have no more hesitancy in beginning action against New York Life officials than he had in proceeding in the Equitable case.

"There is, however, a doubt in his mind whether he could force the restitution of the money given for campaign purposes. The question is whether such contributions were legal or illegal."

LAKEVILLE, CONN., Sept. 17.—District Attorney Jerome, who will return to New York tomorrow, signified his intention tonight of attending the Wednesday session of the Armstrong Insurance committee, at which George W. Perkins will resume his testimony. On the subject of the recent testimony by Mr. Perkins before the Armstrong committee he said:

"I am not going to conjecture whether a crime has been committed or not in the matter of a campaign contribution by an insurance company. I have not seen the official record. Civil suits for restitution may, of course, be brought by the attorney general or an interested party, but a criminal prosecution would largely depend upon the question of the intent with which the act was committed."

"Will you take any steps in the direction of criminal prosecution?" Mr. Jerome was asked.

"I shall have the testimony, of course," he replied, "and if that shows that any crime has been committed I shall certainly prosecute. That goes without saying."

ENTOMBED BODY FOUND.

Searchers Reach Remains of One of Two Men Killed in Quarry Ten Months Ago by Fall of Rock.

YORK, Sept. 17.—(Special.)—Buried under an avalanche of slate in the quarry of R. L. Jones & Co. at Delta, this county, 10 months ago, the body of Alfred Eberts was recovered yesterday. The body of William Hutton is still entombed.

YELLOW FEVER HOLDS ITS TIGHT GRIP ON THE SOUTH

Among the New Cases at New Orleans Is That of a Physician in Charge of a Stricken District—Number of Deaths.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 17.—The yellow fever situation up to 6 o'clock tonight is as follows: New cases, 24; total to date, 2,571; deaths, 2; total, 233; new foci, 6; under treatment, 323; cases discharged, 1,913.

Among today's new cases is Dr. C. M. Shanley, who is in charge of the district of Upper Barataria, in Jefferson parish. He reported the existence of the fever in that territory and was placed in charge by the state board of health. He moved to that territory from North Dakota a few years ago and owns a small plantation there. He came to the city this morning and was taken to the emergency hospital.

Two cases were reported today from the Charity hospital. They came from Harder, which is in Tangipahoa parish, just across the lake from New Orleans. Passed Assistant Surgeon Carput returned from Donaldsonville and Baton Rouge and says that he traced the Baton Rouge case to infection from New Orleans. He found no other cases there.

The state board is in receipt of requests from several places in Louisiana asking that experts be sent to diagnose suspicious cases of fever. The country reports today were: Kenner, seven new cases, one death; La Fourche Crossing, two new cases; La Rose, one death; Talbiah, nine new cases; Barataria, six new cases; Terre Bonne, 21 new cases.

VICKSBURG, MISS., Sept. 17.—Three new cases of yellow fever developed here today. All are negroes. The town was thoroughly fumigated today, nearly two car loads of sulphur being burned. One new case was reported today at Natchez.

TOGO'S SINKING SHIP CAUSED BOILING SEA

Officers Accept Full Responsibility for the Loss of the Vessel.

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The following additional details of the disaster to Admiral Togo's flagship, the Mikasa, are furnished by the Sasebo correspondent of the Daily Telegraph by way of Tokyo:

"At the time of the disaster to the flagship no electric lights were to be seen. At one time the whole inside of the ship seemed filled with white flame. This was after the magazine had exploded. Then 40 minutes elapsed before the ship sank. The salt water closed over the vessel, quenching the flames and converting the surface into a boiling sea. At low tide the deck was visible. The keel is about six feet deep in the mud.

"The cause of the calamity is still uncertain, but it is rumored that it was due to a defective electric light apparatus. At the time of the accident the captain and a number of officers were ashore, but they speedily returned to the ship and conducted the futile fire extinguishing operations. They have written a communication accepting full responsibility and adding that they will readily accept any conditions the authorities may deem fit to impose on them.

"The bodies of the surgeon and five other officers have been recovered and 14 officers have been admitted to the hospital. The port is filled with relatives of the dead and many pathetic scenes are witnessed. Identification in some cases can only be established by articles found in the pockets of the clothing. Admiral Togo has hoisted his flag on board another ship."

USE RADIUM AS AN INSANITY CURE

Remarkable Results Reported from England by the Wonderful Mineral.

EXPERIMENTS TO BE MADE

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Sept. 17.

Radium as a cure for insanity and locomotor ataxis, is now being used with success in the hospitals and asylums of London, England, according to Dr. S. G. Tracy of this city, who arrived today on the steamship Philadelphia of the American line. Six cures have also been made in cancer cases by the use of radium, Dr. Tracy said. Sir William Ramsay, the celebrated English scientist, had each patient under his supervision.

Dr. Tracy brought over with him radium bromides, worth $3,500, which the government admitted for scientific purposes free of duty, and proposes experimenting with insanity and cancer cases in this city.

In a case of insanity, the physician said, a cap of radium barium of 50,000 activity is worn by the patient until a cure is effected. The solution made exclusively for cancer is said to cost $2,500 for 100 milligrams, a very small amount.

When this is dissolved in water it is possible to get from this radium a second solution, and from this second solution a hypodermic injection is made once a week.

The medical experts abroad claim to have discovered a second cure for cancer by the use of radium, consisting of a disc of bismuth, which looks like lead and is as heavy as lead. This disc is impregnated by radium by electrical force, and the disc is then applied externally to the parts that are diseased.

INDUCEMENT TO HEIRS TO BESTIR THEMSELVES

Unable to Divide a Fortune Until a Long-Missing Son Was Found and Notified.

DENVER, Sept. 17.—Good fortune has smiled upon Edward Metcalf, a waiter in "Charley's" restaurant. He had experienced many hard knocks in his time and was content, in a general way, with his station in life.

He was apprised of the change in his financial welfare by a brother, who is a trapeze performer in Barnum & Bailey's circus, but only recently learned definitely of the amount of the fortune left him, when relatives came to this city from his former home in Iowa. Metcalf says he received as his portion of the estate $15,000.

Years ago when Mr. Metcalf was a mere boy he left home suddenly, coming west to seek fame and fortune. He left no address for his parents, and in time they lost all track of him, although many efforts were made to locate the young man. After he left home his father accumulated a fortune of $75,000, unknown to the son wandering in the great west.

Four years ago the father died, and in his will specified that the property he left was not to be divided until the son Edward was found. The other heirs set to work to find the boy, and although much time and money was spent their efforts proved vain.

A few weeks ago, when Barnum & Bailey's circus was in Denver, Edward attended the show and was surprised to see on one of the trapezes his own brother, whom he had not seen for many years. After the performance Edward went to the performer's tent and made himself known to his brother.

Edward was then told of the search that had been made for him, and the cause of it.

The next day Edward communicated with some of his relatives in Iowa and the story of his brother was confirmed. Plans were made by the Eastern relatives and the other heirs to the estate for an immediate settlement, and the division of the proceeds. This week the last piece of property was sold and the sum of $15,000 deposited in the First National bank to the credit of the young man.

Warning to McKees Rocks Youth.

The sermon yesterday afternoon on "Why So Many McKees Rocks Persons Go to Hell," by Evangelist Charles F. Barrett of Delaware, O., at the McKees Rocks Methodist Episcopal church, did not draw the crowd expected. The talk was not of the sulphurous nature which the placards had led residents to anticipate. The speaker dealt generally with temptations that confront the young and urged his hearers to lead upright lives.

MEXICO'S FRIENDSHIP IS CLOSELY CEMENTED

President Diaz Makes Known Attitude of His Government Toward Uncle Sam.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 17.—President Diaz's message says that the relations of Mexico with all countries are most cordial, but those with the United States have been more closely cemented by the action of the Washington government at the time of the death of Senor Azpiroz, the Mexican minister. The American courtesies on that occasion are awakening a sentiment of lively gratitude in the hearts of the Mexican people.

President Diaz makes special reference to the campaign against yellow fever, which resulted in the practical expulsion of the disease. During the year the railway lines have extended 236 kilometers, making an aggregate mileage of 16,866. The federal revenue for the fiscal year is over $90,000,000. The surplus is estimated to be the greatest for the past 10 years.

Regarding monetary reform, President Diaz only states that new laws have been put into force. President Diaz also made reference to the advance made in public education, and touched upon subjects relating to the notable increase in mining and agriculture and the vast amount of labor performed on the port works at Contzacoalcos, Manzanillo, Salina Cruz and other cities.

SHOOTS OFTEN, BUT POORLY.

Poor Marksman Causes Great Excitement in Lawrenceville, but Does No Damage.

John Matesic, who lives in the rear of 5151 Butler street, did a lot of shooting last evening, but being a poor marksman, only succeeded in inflicting a powder burn on the hand of a policeman.

Matesic had trouble with his wife and when neighbors interfered he opened fire on them with a revolver. He failed to hit any one but kept the crowd that had gathered at bay.

Officer Michael Harmon was attracted by the firing and tried to get into the house. Matesic thrust his hand through a pane of glass and took a shot at Harmon, missing, as usual.

Harmon fell back to the patrol box and sent in a call for assistance. When he returned to the house Matesic had taken refuge in an outbuilding. Officers John Hogan and Edward Cook had arrived and Harmon forced the door of the outbuilding. As he did so Matesic fired again, this time the flash of the revolver burning Harmon's hand. Matesic was arrested.

John Carries a Revolver.

John Starnus of 2011 Forbes street was arrested at Sixth and Wylie avenues last night. When Starnus was searched at central station a loaded 32 caliber revolver was found in his possession.

For the Little Ones

To Keep Their Digestion Perfect Nothing is so Safe and Pleasant as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets

Thousands of men and women have found Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets the safest and most reliable preparation for any form of indigestion or stomach trouble.

Thousands of people who are not sick, but are well and wish to keep well, take Stuart's Tablets after every meal to insure perfect digestion and avoid trouble.

But it is not generally known that the Tablets are just as good and wholesome for little folks as for their elders.

Little children who are pale, thin and have no appetite, or do not grow or thrive, should use the Tablets after eating and will derive great benefit from them.

Mrs. G. A. Crolsley, 638 Washington St., Hoboken, New Jersey, writes: "Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets just fill the bill for children as well as for older folks. I've had the best of luck with them. My three-year-old girl takes them as readily as candy. I have only to say 'Tablets' and she drops everything else and runs for them."

A Buffalo mother, a short time ago, who despaired of the life of her babe, was so delighted with the results from giving the child these Tablets that she went before the notary public of Erie Co., N. Y., and made the following affidavit:

Gentlemen: Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets were recommended to me for my two-months-old baby, which was sick and puny and the doctor said was suffering from indigestion. I took the child to the hospital, but there found no relief. A friend mentioned the Stuart Tablets and I procured a box from my druggist and used only the large sweet lozenges in the box and was delighted to find they were just the thing for my baby. I feel justified in saying that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets saved my child's life.

Mrs. W. T. Deuhlofe.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 12th day of April, 1907.

Henry Karis,
Notary Public in and for Erie Co., N.Y.

For babies, no matter how young or delicate, the tablets will accomplish wonders in increasing flesh, appetite and growth. Use only the large sweet tablets in every box. Full-sized boxes are sold by all druggists for 50 cents, and no parent should neglect the use of this safe remedy for all stomach and bowel troubles if the child is ailing in any way regarding its food or assimilation.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been known for years as the best preparation for all stomach troubles whether in adults or infants.

YOUNG KENTUCKY POET REBUKES SELFISH POLITICIANS

Plea for the Henry Clay Memorial Is Made in Patriotic Verses.

RINGS LIKE "OLD IRONSIDES"

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM
JOHN F. COWAN, Staff Correspondent.

LEXINGTON, KY., Sept. 17.—A stinging protest in verse from the pen of Jack J. McGrath, a young Kentucky poet, is being flung at the lawmakers of the Blue Grass state in an effort to secure the early restoration of the statue of Henry Clay. For two years the headless monument of the great statesman has stood on ghastly guard above his grave here in the Lexington cemetery, while the governor of Kentucky and a clique of Democratic politicians have refused to appropriate money for its repair. The heroic statue of Clay was decapitated by a bolt of lightning in July, 1903, and since that time the uncanny piece of marble, reared on a colum 100 feet high,

Points the finger of scorn to the state that denies
To its statesman a tribute whose worth has been proved.

At the last session of the Kentucky legislature two bills for monuments were passed. One appropriated $1,500 for the purpose of cementing the stone head on the mutilated statue of Clay. The other was for $15,000 to be used in erecting a monument to William Goebel. Gov. Beckham promptly signed the Goebel appropriation, but vetoed the bill granting the pittance for the historic landmark which towers above the hills of Lexington.

Plans to Raise Money.

Every patriotic Kentuckian was aroused to ire by Beckham's act, and from the blue grass region he received many bitter rebukes. Various schemes were tried in order to raise the money without the aid of the state. Kissing parties were planned and it was suggested that Kentucky belles could soon sell enough kisses to more than defray the expenses of repairing the statue. Living picture entertainments were planned and similar patriotic sacrifices were in mind, but for some reason or other these ideas for raising the funds did not meet with popular approval—probably the chaperons were not properly approached. At any rate the money still remains to be secured.

Several months ago an effort was made to raise the amount by subscription, but the noise of the politicians caused the generously-inclined people to hesitate. Candidates for the legislature are now electioneering and are making promises for next year. Why should they not pledge themselves to repair the Clay monument? Instantly the question became a campaign issue. If the people's taxes could be used in commemorating Goebel, then why should not the same state funds be just as easy of access for perpetuating the deeds of the immortal Clay?

Thousands of people from the north passed through Lexington last winter on their way to the Florida resorts and this summer thousands from the south have traveled the same route in their vacation jaunts to the lakes. Every one of these multitudes of tourists passed in the shadow of the headless statue and the hideousness of the silent marble caused every lip to express involuntarily some remark of regret and shame.

The better people of Central Kentucky keenly feel this assault on their pride. Kentuckians are wont to boast when they speak of their native state and it is against their principles to make apologies, but for two years they have gazed up at the marble specter—and are silent before strangers.

Mr. McGrath, who is a young newspaperman in Lexington, at this juncture wrote four stanzas which emphasized the whole situation. The poem was printed in the Lexington Herald one morning and the politicians were sent to cover. The poem is now being printed on a placard beside a picture of the mutilated statue and its decapitated head which rests in the Great Pacificator's mausoleum where are engraved the Clay epigram, "I would rather be right than be president."

Helps Caleb Powers.

The placards are now being distributed throughout Kentucky and after the November election will be placed in the hands of every member of the legislature. When the legislature meets the whole country will be acquainted with the patriotic campaign which the people of Lexington propose to inaugurate and powerful influences will be brought to bear on the state administration

—just to test if the bent
Of the modern Kentucky is worthy of Clay.

The effect of the campaign is farreaching. Caleb Powers, who is still languishing in jail convicted of conspiracy in the killing of Goebel, has won many friends through Beckham's act, and when he vetoed the Clay monument appropriation he placed the Democratic party in Kentucky in disrepute. Mr. McGrath came here from Mississippi and has scarcely attained his majority, yet he is well known in the south through his contributions to current literature.

The Headless Statue.

By Jack J. McGrath.

Is it fit for the hero who battled so long
For the good of Kentucky, who fought the good fight—
And won in the face of the weak against strong—
Is it fair that we hold his achievements so light?

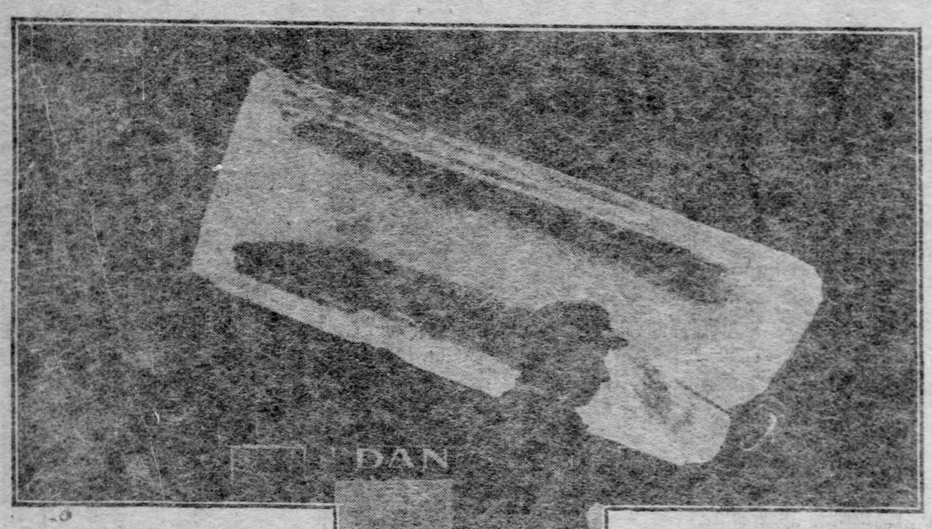
Is it just that the statue of him who hath swayed
The multitude, to silently stand with the bust
Proudly reared to the sky, e'en gesture protrayed
While the bolt-riven head cowers low in the dust?

'Tis the statue of Clay, yet its ghastliness lies
As a silent reproach to the land that he loved,
Points the finger of scorn to the state that denies
To its statesman a tribute whose worth has been proved.

Is it wrong to suppose that the lightning sent
Like a demon from hell, turning night into day,
Was a heaven-sent bolt, just to test if the bent
Of the modern Kentucky were worthy of Clay?

JACK J. M'GRATH,
The Kentucky Poet.

LITTLE MAN WHO CARRIES BIG CAKE OF ICE



CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 17.— C. Chavanka, a Cleveland ice man, has recently demonstrated most remarkable strength. Himself but 150 pounds in weight, he lifts and carries upon his left shoulder with ease a 400-pound cake of ice. In the large iron works and in warehouses demonstrations of great lifting and carrying strength are frequently seen among the long-experienced employes, but seldom one to equal that of the ice man in the Forest City. Also, while in iron works and warehouses great weights are usually carried on a level and in the straightest possible line, Chavanka often carries his great loads up several flights of stairs. While he has never carried 400 pounds up three flights, it is not unusual for him to shoulder 250 to 300 pounds when furnishing his customers on the upper floors of some of the tenements.

TIRED DANCERS TRAMP, HEADED BY ORCHESTRA

Trolley Cars Stop Running to a Grove. Hauling Wagons Finally Come to the Rescue.

Nadine Grove, Ross township, is a long way from Pittsburgh, when it gets ground to 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning. The Misses Mary Cunningham, Mayme Sullivan and Kathryn Gartland last week organized a corn roast, the program including additional delicacies for supper and dancing. Over 50 young people went to the grove Thursday evening, and had a happy evening, until it was time to go home—1 a. m. Then the discovery was made that the trolley cars had stopped running so far out.

However, it was necessary to get home, so, headed by the orchestra, the half-hundred started. It was a long trip and included a walk of several miles, but finally a couple of heavy hauling wagons on their way to town were pressed into service, and the tired but triumphant dancers reached Pittsburgh long after daylight. The members of the party, in addition to the hostesses, were:

The Misses Jennie Durning, Kathryn Creed, Agnes Cain, Annie Cain, Irene Wurzell, Jennie Sullivan, Lynne Wurzell, Gertrude Penders, Mary Lehaney, Aileen McGuire, Anna McGuire, Kathryn Tinney, Bertha Connelly, Annie Meyers, Maria Carlos, Elizabeth Griffin, Nellie Dineen, Mayme Dineen, Rose Scully, Katie Magee, Mayme Gallagher and Messrs. HIS HEAD THE TARGET.

Militiaman Is Fatally Shot by Comrade While Making the Score at Rifle Practice.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 17.—Private James W. Mayhan of No. 2 Lorain court was fatally shot in the head today while members of Company F, of the Fifth regiment, Ohio National Guard, was having target practice at White Villa, in the western end of the city. The shot was fired by First Sergeant Frank E. Locke.

Mayhan and another member of the company was in the pit marking the score. The manner in which Mayhan received his injury is something of a mystery. It is not certain whether he raised his head too far or whether the bullet glanced back from the target.

Two Men Escape from Dixmont.

Robert Joyce and Thomas Booth, inmates of the Western Pennsylvania Hospital for the Insane at Dixmont, escaped from that institution yesterday afternoon. Workmen are laying a tile floor in the first story of the building and, removed the grating from a window to pass material through. The two men found the window unprotected, climbed through and dropped to the ground. Officials at the hospital stated the fugitives are not dangerous.

BRITISH WARSHIPS MAY NOT COME TO AMERICA

Rear Admiral Battenburg Has Orders to Hold the Cruiser Squadron at Halifax.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 17.—Gov. Jones has received the following telegram from Rear Admiral Prince Battenberg, commanding the second cruiser squadron of warships:

"I beg to inform your honor that under the revised program of movements, the squadron will remain at Halifax until the end of October."

The original program was for the squadron to remain at Halifax for 10 days and then proceed to American waters. A stay of several days was to have been made at New York and then the squadron was scheduled to proceed to Bermuda. Whether this change will cut out the American visit altogether, by the ships going direct from Halifax to Bermuda, is not known. Official circles here can assign no reason for the change. It has been suggested that the prince does not care to visit American ports while election campaigns are in progress.

Sons of Veterans Gather.

GETTYSBURG, Sept. 17.—The national encampment of the Sons of Veterans will begin tomorrow. On every regular train entering the city great crowds from all over the country are arriving. This afternoon a long special train of Pullman cars arrived from Chicago with about 400 persons.

FIGHTERS ARE SILENT.

Refuse to Tell How They Receive Knife Wounds.

During a fight at the home of Mrs. Dora Seifert, 1429 Our alley, early yesterday morning, Waller Murdoch and Edward Dudley were slashed with a knife. Murdoch was cut on the head and Dudley on the head and arm, the wounds not being serious.

Both men were arrested after their wounds had been dressed, and at the central station hearings, as they refused to state who had done the cutting, Magistrate Kirby fined them each $10 and costs. Both men are negroes.

MEETING OF THE COUNTY LEAGUE

Bowlers in This Section Get Ready for the Opening of the Season.

GAZETTE THE OFFICIAL ORGAN

The Allegheny County Bowling league held an enthusiastic meeting on the Federal alleys last night, at which a new plan was adopted, the old officers reelected and The Gazette appointed the official organ of the league. The new plan consists of dividing the league into four sections, each to be independent of the other, but all under the supervision of general officers. The winners of all the sections will meet at the end of the season to play for the championship trophy. There are four sections, the North Side, the Pittsburgh, the South Side and the Monongahela Valley. The different sections consist of the following clubs:

Allegheny section—Federal, North Side, Crescent, Cecelia, Royal, Millvale, Millvale Independents, St. Boniface, Allegheny and Troy Hill.

Pittsburgh section—Brunswick, Unity, Friendship, St. Joseph, Carrick, Hazelwood, Commercials, Liberty, Rough Riders, Great Eastern, Field Club and Wilkinsburg.

South Side section—St. Vincent, Mayers, Birmingham, Marquette, St. Henry, Southern, Mt. Oliver, Mexico and Tom Lees.

Monongahela Valley section—East Pittsburgh, Braddock, North Braddock, Munhall, Homestead, McKeesport, Arcade of McKeesport, Duquesne, Wilmerding and Turtle Creek.

There was an Allegheny Valley section, consisting of three teams from Parentum, one from Natrona, two from New Kensington and one from Freeport. New Kensington and Freeport being outside of the county, were not considered. The Allegheny Valley section then withdrew its application.

It was decided to open the season on October 16. A final meeting of the league will be held on October 1, at which all dues must be paid. A general schedule committee will then be appointed by the president to draw up dates for all the sections.

All the old officers of the league were re-elected without opposition. They are: President, George A. Metzgar, vice president, E. L. Wilson; secretary, John H. Gruber; treasurer, Ben Vey. The president will appoint the executive committee at the next meeting, and then the league will be ready to enter upon its sixth season with more vigor and thoroughness than ever before.

The Gazette was accepted as the official organ without a dissenting voice. Bowlers will hereafter look exclusively to The Gazette for their news.

Among the new rules adopted were that a bowler can be a member of only one team in the league. A player can be released only on a two-thirds vote of his team, and may join another team after 10 days. Last season a player, after being released by one team, could not join another during the remainder of the season. In case of a grievance, the player can appeal to the executive committee, whose finding shall be final. Players must be signed by clubs and no one will be eligible to bowl unless he is registered by the secretary.

The dues were fixed at $10 a club, of which $1.50 will go to the treasurer of the American Bowling congress. Each section will decide on the value and nature of its prizes.

It was also decided that each alley on which championship matches are rolled shall have scales and ring for the measurement of balls, according to the rules of the A. B. C. The alleys on which championship matches are to be played must be provided with square gutters.

All matches must begin no later than 8:15. A fine will be imposed on all bowlers not in uniform.

The president was instructed to appoint a committee to inspect all alleys selected for championship matches, and no alleys will be recommended that are not strictly regulation.

The Liberty Valley Bowling league held a meeting on the Penn avenue alleys yesterday at which the following officers were elected: Louis Seibel, president; Theo. Greb, first vice president; Elmer Jahn, second vice president; George Reiddell, secretary, and Morris Geary, treasurer. Seven teams were represented as follows: Shadyside, Kenwood, Hillside, Highland, Schenley, Centrals and Meadows. Most of the teams also will be uniformed, with bright prospects of all being so. A schedule committee was appointed to adopt the schedule and the season will open about October 2. President Seibel would like to secure one more team in order to make it an eight club league, and any team wishing to enter should see him at once. The league adopted the bylaws and rules of the Allegheny County league. It was also decided to start the matches at 8 o'clock sharp without any practice. At the above meeting The Gazette was adopted as the official paper for the league.

The Braddock team of the Monongahela Valley section of the Allegheny County league held its annual election and the following officers were elected: President, W. B. Benn; secretary and treasurer, E. Stephens; captain and manager, William Westlake. The team will be composed of the following members: Benn, Nugent, Bates, Reilley, Barnes, Donovan, Fessmer, Stephens, McAdams and Westlake.

DAVE FULTZ EXPOUNDS VIRTUES OF NATIONAL GAME

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(Special.)—To the surprise of 200 young men who attended this afternoon's meeting of the Harlem branch of the Young Men's Christian association, in 125th street, David L. Fultz, center fielder of the New York team of the American baseball league, was leader of the meeting. He made a speech which contained many good epigrams and held up the national game as a promoter of morals and manliness as well as of physical development.

Fultz opened his address by remarking that any man who is successfully copel with the baseball coaches and umpires of the present day ought to be able to make a tolerable showing of language in a prayer meeting. He then took up the subject of athletics in its relation to morals and ethics, and held that the training received by an athlete was conducive to the development of character.

"Baseball is usually undermined by those who know the least of the merits of the great game," he said. "It reaches a man, among other things, to be fair. He acquires the habit of self-control and the virtue of perseverance. He must not lose his temper, if he does he cannot be a good player. He must learn to repress the temptation which often confronts him of doing injury to his opponent, he must accept the discipline dealt out by umpire and manager and he must keep in mind the rules. If he fails in these requirements he becomes mean and unmanly." Among other things Fultz also said:

"The ball player who achieves victory by unfairness never gains anything.

"Ill gotten gains have no sweetness.

"In the game of baseball a man learns well the lessons of every-day life.

"Every man should be generous. Baseball teaches generosity.

"Many men are religious when it is no detriment to their business.

"Many men throw off Christianity as we do our night robes upon arising.

"Religion is an aid to good ball playing and good ball playing helps religion.

"The majority of those who play ball are good men and gentlemen."

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 17.—(Special.)—The first Sunday game at home to be unplayed was the scheduled clash today that was prevented by rain. The field was a mire and it was raining hard when Umpire Emslie called it off. The Pirates got in their practice licks, but that was all. Frank Bancroft mused regretfully at the loss and recalled that he had suggested a postponement of last Friday's game and a double header today. Had a start been made at 1:30 o'clock one game could have been played and possibly five innings of the second. The game postponed today will be played off in Cincinnati by the double header method on October 3. It will be the wind-up of the season.

Since their defeats Saturday the Pirates have become reconciled to the thought that the pennant is not for them. The reason that Fred Clarke refused to consider a postponement of the game played last Friday and the scheduling of a double header for today was because he feared that by such an arrangement a chance to play one game might be lost and the pennant cause thus hampered by failure to pluck a needed victory from the Reds. Then the Reds came back on Saturday and put the Pirates out of the chase.

Manager Kelley received the sad news today that his sister Anna is dying at her home in Cambridge, Mass. The message stated that his sister had lapsed into a final unconsciousness and that her death was hourly expected. Manager Kelley will leave for Cambridge tomorrow morning. He will not accompany the team to Chicago, but will return here probably the last of the week.

COLLEGE AND SCHOOL FOOTBALL GOSSIP

The University of Pennsylvania prospects are bright for another successful eleven, in the practice Saturday, in which neither Capt. Reynolds nor Right Guard Ziegler participated, the one eleven which looked most like a varsity team was made up as follows: Weede, left end; Draper, left tackle; Horr, left guard; Bankhart, center; Hobson, right guard; Junk, right tackle; Dwyer, right end; Johnson, quarterback; W. Hollenback, left halfback; Greene, right halfback; Folwell, fullback.

This was the first opportunity the student body had to "size up" the new men who are expected to take the places of the veterans Penn lost last year. There were five men who occupied the center of the stage. Of these Horr, a young 240-pound giant from Colgate academy, attracted much attention. Horr is built much on the same lines as ex-Capt. Hogan of Yale, with the exception that he is heavier and taller. He is nimble on his feet and was one of the first men in getting down the field on kicks. He is a candidate for guard.

Following Horr came Draper, a strapping big fellow from the Springfield Training school. Draper stripe at 203 pounds, and is about 6 feet 1 inch in height. Among New England football critics Draper was regarded as one of the best tackles of the year, and great things were predicted for him during his university career. He is one of the fastest men on the squad and gives the impression of tremendous strength.

Bankhart, the former Exeter academy center rush, was another new man who appeared for the first time. Bankhart weighs 185 pounds, though he does not look it, and has all the earmarks of a good player.

Risley and Lubey were two new men from Mercersburg academy. Risley is the interscholastic broad jumper with a record of 23 feet 10 inches. He is a high jumper of even more fame, for he has repeatedly done better than 6 feet and has never been pushed to the limit. Risley is fast, can kick well and weighs about 170 pounds is a likely man for either the end or back field positions. Lubey is the Mercersburg quarterback of last year. He weighs 165 pounds and is counted upon as a good substitute to Stevenson.

The other new men who reported for the first time are Kinnard, McCarey, Longwell, De Hanil, Gallagher, Robinson, Sheble.

At Yale the coaches have decided to move Stevenson up to left end to fill the place left vacant by the graduation of Neal. Another shift which the coaches seem to have decided upon is to try McKay, the baseball pitcher, at center. McKay is the only man in sight at present who has the physique for this position. McKay has never played center, and he will have to learn the position from the beginning.

Tripp, the veteran of last season, will be started in at one of the guards, and Forbes, the former Wesleyan player, at one of the tackles. Kineon, the varsity carsman, and one of the substitute tackles of last season, will probably be the first man to be tried at the other tackle position. For the other guard position Carl Flanders is spoken of as the most likely man to get a trial at this place. Flanders had good experience last season, and if he can stand the battering he ought to make a valuable man.

Guard and center are giving the coaches much anxiety. Thompson, the Andover player, who went to Cornell after passing his examinations for Yale, had been counted upon to make a running mate to Tripp. Now the coaches are hoping that the freshman class will produce two giants who can be tried for center positions. The two prep. school players who arrived last week, Ray Paley of Painesville, O., and Roy Boggs of Tacoma, Wash., each weigh 200, and are strapping big boys.

Coach Hoskins is trying out these men for the Bucknell eleven: Ends, Binns, Crue, Martin, Fiegel; guards, Schade and Schaffer; center, Hawk. O'Brine, quarterback, Martin, Frank, Bowen, Gardorf, McMinemin; tackles, Baldwin, Lenhart. O'Brine; halfbacks, Tibbert, Winegardner, Goldsmith, Fiersol, Van Fleck; fullback, Lenhart, Tibbert and Baldwin.

Coach Bull's task seems to be to make up a back field for Lafayette. Shuster's place as quarter is assured while Schirch, Turnbull and McAvoy is equally good for full if he is not needed somewhere else. Wack and Hall are good backs, but entirely too light to stand the brunt of a long game's hammering. It is to be hoped that Bull can make use of Elliott and Craig behind the line. Their work last year seemed equally good, though not so aggressive as the first two.

The "line should be another affair. Hoskins seems good for center. For guard there are Logan and Doud, of last year, and Cozad and Rush, Monahan, Rodgers, Flod, Engle and Small are all splendid material for tackle positions, and it would not be surprising if some of these latter would be found back of the line before the season is closed. Small has not yet arrived, but will report this week. Monahan is due in a few days. Rodgers is a man who will be heard from this year. He weighed in at 198 pounds last year and is now 215 and much stronger.

At end there are Thomas and Snook, both clever players. McCon will be tried either at end or halfback. Dr. Hall seems to have good thoughts about this boy and an effort will be made to develop him. He is speedy, clever, plucky and does not get hurt.

It is reported that Wisconsin will lose Rush, left end and captain of last year's team. Friends in Madison say he has entered the Colorado college of mines, and has quit football for good.

"Hurry Up" Yost, Michigan's great coach, is in Nashville. He arrived Saturday night with Dan McGugin, and will be there for about 10 days, assisting the old Wolverine guard in coaching the Vanderbilt squad, which is scheduled to meet Michigan on October 14.

According to Head Coach Lowenthal, Capt. Moynihan and Young, tackles, are practically the only players sure of their positions on the Illinois team. A new center trio must be constructed, two end rushes found, and new blood discovered for the back field.

The Dickinson Athletic association has elected these officers: Baseball manager, Scarborough, '06; assistant baseball manager, Banks, '07; indoor sports manager, James, '07; assistant manager, Gilbert, '08; outdoor sports manager, Gill; assistant manager, Haines.

The football season at Otterbein is now on in full blast. Coach Beane and Capt. Van Sickle have been on the ground arranging things and holding practices. Material is showing up well thus early in the season. The line will make at least two changes, as Bloseker graduated last year and Bennett will not be in school. The back field will be almost entirely new. The new coach is well liked. He is a hard worker and makes his men work hard, as well. The first game will be Saturday, September 30, with O. S. U.

Now Yale has a hockey coach. A group picture of one of the big eastern college's athletic advisers would require a good sized camera.

REID TO INSTRUCT BY THE PHOTOGRAPH ROUTE

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Sept. 17.—(Special.)—"Bill" Reid, coach of the Harvard football team, intends to try a novelty in practice work for his men that is an innovation in the east. In the summer months, with moving pictures, he had Haughton and Kernan do a lot of punting until the correct method of punting and catching the ball was recorded. Old line men gave exhibitions of breaking through and sending the interference and centre instructed how their efforts are the best made.

These photos have been enlarged and they will be displayed daily to the candidates until they have accomplished the results desired by Reid. The coach is a great theorist, and he wants his theories followed out to the letter.

Reid has also routed tradition in splitting failing on the ball, and breaking through in the preliminary practice. This is to avoid injuries to the men so early a stage. In place of these fundamentals he has begun with signal work. To the ordinary follower of football one would think Reid a trifle revolutionary to open the season with signal practice for all the candidates, but there is a method in Reid's planning, as the signal practice enables the men to get their wind and accustom themselves to Harvard's simple "three men" formation.

Falling on the ball and breaking through will be developed shortly, when the warriors have hardened their muscles and have incidentally had all their paddings examined carefully by Reid and "Scotty" McMasters, the trainers.

VICTOR HERBERT HERE FOR WEEK AT THE EXPO

Orchestra Leader Glad to Be in Pittsburgh—Working Hard on His New Opera.

Victor Herbert, for six years leader of the Pittsburgh orchestra, and one of the most popular leaders, is in Pittsburgh. He came in yesterday morning direct from Buffalo, where he attended the premier production of his new opera, "Alice and the Eight Princesses," which was given on Thursday night. He spent most of the day and evening in his rooms at the Hotel Lincoln, where he continued work on his new opera, "Mlle. Modiste," in which Fritzi Scheff will star the coming season. Mr. Herbert will give a series of 12 concerts during the week, the first one this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

"It is good to get back into Pittsburgh. It is just like coming back home. You know I always consider Pittsburgh my home town. The years spent here were among the happiest of my life, and while I enjoy New York to the utmost, many a time I look back over the half dozen years spent in this city, and almost regret that I am not here to stay. It always does me good to play before a Pittsburgh audience. Nowhere in the world is there more appreciation shown."

The orchestra arrived in the city last evening at 7 o'clock accompanied by William B. Clayton, Mr. Herbert's manager. Mr. Herbert's arrangement for today's program includes a number of compositions from his own pen. For encore numbers several from his operas will be included. Herbert has six operas on the road at present, two of them having started out last week, including Lulu Glaser in "Miss Dolly Dollars" and another star in "Alice and the Eight Princesses."

The following programs have been arranged for this afternoon:

2:00 P. M.

Grand Festival March.....Herbert
Overture, "The Flying Dutchman".....Wagner
"Dance of the Hours," from "La Gioconda".....Ponchielli
"Norwegian Bridal Procession".....Grieg

Festival Overture.....Weber
(a) "Love Song;" (b) "Valse Gentile" (Orchestration by Victor Herbert).....Ferrara

FIRST AUTUMN OUTING OF THE MYSTIC SHRINERS

Several Thousand Will Spend a Day at the Masonic Country Club in the Mountains.

Mystic Shriners of Syria temple will hold their first "autumn outing" at the Masonic Country club, on the crest of the Allegheny mountains, on Thursday of next week. Only members of the shrine and their families will participate, but, even with this limitation, it is expected that more than 3,000 persons will attend. Syria temple has over 2,500 members. The greater number live in the two cities, but there are members in every county of Western Pennsylvania, and every section will be represented.

Special trains from Pittsburgh over the Baltimore & Ohio will connect with trains from Uniontown and from Johnstown over the Rockwood branch. The Pittsburgh trains will leave the Water street station at 8 a. m.

The Masonic Country club has a 2,000-acre tract, so no one will be crowded. The amusements will include dancing, euchre, baseball, tennis, races, balloon ascensions and a special brand of loop-the-loop.

Herman Junker is the general chairman in charge of the outing, assisted by the following committees:

Transportation—Winfield S. Bell, A. W. Nicholson, Azor R. Hunt, John H. Armstrong, R. E. Umbel.

Refreshments—John Dimling, George W. Wilson, Fred Schatz, A. C. Gies.

Printing and Badges—George W. Wilson, H. L. Dixon, S. B. Cochrane, U. S. Strauss.

CARNIVAL PARADE.

Luna Park Management Arranges for a Festival Parade Through the Two Cities This Morning.

As a forerunner of the carnival to be held at Luna park this week to mark the closing of that popular place of resort, a big street parade will be held this morning through the downtown section of the city. In the parade will be seven floats typifying mythological characters and events, and numerous gaily adorned and handsome women. One of the floats, an immense star and crescent, will be particularly gorgeous, and in the center of the crescent will be the queen of the parade. There will also be floral floats and an immense band wagon, gaily decorated for the occasion.

The parade will form at the corner of Fifth and Market streets at 11:30 o'clock and will proceed up Fifth avenue to Smithfield; thence to Water street, to Wood street, to Seventh avenue, to Liberty, across the Seventh street bridge to Allegheny. Proceeding along Federal street, the parade will return to Pittsburgh over the Sixth street bridge and, proceeding to Market street, will disband.

The Carnival of Luna will be one of the greatest affairs of its kind ever held in Pittsburgh, and continuing throughout the week, will in many essentials rival the Venetian carnivals and those incident upon Mardi Gras.

Ten barrels of confetti will be given away next Monday evening. Press Club night, at Luna park, and it is expected the event will rival a Pittsburgh Hallowe'en without any of its objectionable features. Many of the delegates to the State Editorial association convention, which meets in this city next week, will be on hand and lend their efforts in making this the banner night of the season of this amusement place.

Formal Opening, Nixon Restaurant, Tuesday, Sept. 19th.

On this day every lady will receive a serviceable souvenir. A cordial invitation is extended to ladies and gentlemen for their patronage on Tuesday and thereafter.

"Beautiful Brighton Heights is selling."

Being part of the same premises conveyed to the grantor by the Commonwealth Real Estate Trust Company, by deed dated December 5, 1903, and recorded in the recorder's office of Allegheny county, in deed book, volume 1,222, page 319.

DR. EATON MAY LEAVE PULPIT

Pastor of North Avenue Church Would Like to Engage in Active Prohibition Work.

CONFERENCE WILL DECIDE

If the Pittsburgh Methodist conference consents the Rev. Dr. E. L. Eaton, pastor of the North Avenue (Allegheny) church, will leave his pulpit and engage in work for the Prohibition party. Dr. Eaton has been a Prohibitionist for more than 25 years and a champion of the party's principles while conducting successful pastorates in Des Moines, Ia., and Pittsburgh. The Rev. Dr. Charles W. Blodgett of Cincinnati will succeed him in the North Avenue church.

"It has not been decided whether I shall leave the pulpit for awhile to take up this work," said Dr. Eaton yesterday, "for the decision rests with the Pittsburgh conference, which will meet next month. The arrangement under which a man enters the Methodist ministry constitutes a moral pledge that he will obey his conference and subordinate his own desire to the good of the church. I have been asked to devote my time to the organization and extension of the National Ministerial Prohibition Alliance, under the auspices of the Prohibition national committee, which has its headquarters in Chicago. I have addressed four conferences on the subject this year, and have organized branches among ministers in the conferences of Central Pennsylvania, Philadelphia and Wilmington, Del., besides addressing the conference of Newark, N. J., which already had an organization similar in its scope.

Had Agreement With Officers.

"Shortly after I came to the North Avenue church the officers of the church and myself talked the matter over and came to the conclusion that it would be mutually satisfactory if the pastoral relations should be terminable at the end of five years. With regard to taking up this other work I am, however, subject to the wishes of the conference."

It is known that Dr. Eaton looks favorably upon the proposition of the Prohibition party's national committee, and it is considered very likely that the Pittsburgh conference will consent to spare him. There are three ways in which Dr. Eaton can take up this new line of work. The conference can either make him an evangelist, in which case he can devote himself mainly to temperance work, or it can appoint him an agent in the temperance cause, or grant him supernumerary relations for as long a time as he chooses, up to the limit of five years, after which, if he desires to continue in the itinerancy, he must return to the conference ready for active ministerial employment.

If the Prohibitionists succeed in engaging so distinguished a divine as Dr. Eaton they will look upon it as a notable event, harking the beginning of a new era in their crusade against what they call the "drink curse." They want to unite, if possible, all the 75,000 preachers in the United States in an alliance to fight the liquor traffic from their pulpits and lead the church membership in a new national crusade for prohibition. As Dr. Eaton said:

Must Have Aid of Ministers.

"This movement is a moral one, and to succeed it must have the aid of the ministers of the church. When the abolition movement was on, every pulpit in the north was a storm center of the agitation, so that slavery had to go down. When the pulpit unites in the demand for the overturow of the liquor traffic, the liquor traffic will go. And it will be consistent for the pulpit so to preach, for all churches have taken high ground in discussing the drink evil."

Dr. Eaton will go this morning to Detroit, and this evening will address the Detroit Methodist conference in behalf of the National Prohibition Ministerial Alliance.

Dr. Charles W. Blodgett, who will succeed Dr. Eaton to the pastorate of the North Avenue church, is an eloquent preacher. He has just resigned from the Cincinnati conference and given up the church in which he has labored very successfully, the St. Paul Methodist church in Cincinnati. He will apply for acceptance into the Pittsburgh conference at its meeting in October.

THE REV. DR. E. L. EATON.

"BOOZE" BARRED IN THIS RESORT

Costly Wines the Favorite Beverage in an Alleged Speakeasy Raided by Police.

ALL FASTIDIOUS DRINKERS

In cases and in bottles, by pints and quarts, on ice and otherwise, the police yesterday unearthed enough choice drinkables to stock the largest as well as the best bar in Pittsburgh. The place is said to have been a speakeasy; if such is the case it was certainly a model one. Rare old wines of foreign vintage, beer on ice and Dog's Head ale in dust covered bottles were among the assets of this high-class drinking establisment, but nary a drop of whisky was found in the house. Asked as to this peculiar omission the reply of one of the guests was that those who frequented the place were wine drinkers or else dallied only with the product of the malt. Whisky, he said, when unevenly distributed among a mixed assemblage, had a tendency to destroy that peace and good-fellowship which should always exist in a well-organized party of pleasure seekers. And certainly this object obtained when the police entered yesterday, for the clinking of the wine glass, the merry laugh or a burst of joyous song was the nearest approach to ribaldry.

At 38 Washington street did this model little drinking place exist. Dominick Poeyuno was the proprietor. On week days he conducts a restaurant there, but the police maintain that on Sundays it is transformed into one of the most pretentious speakeasies in the city. Captain Lawrence Bartley called there yesterday with a squad of officers. When he left Poeyuno and 17 visitors accompanied him. A couple of officers stayed behind to take stock, and this is what they found:

Ten cases of champagne, several dozen bottles of vermouth, 171 loose pints of champagne, 78 pints of Italian wine, three cases of beer on ice and one case of Dog's Head ale. When the visitors reached the Central station they found many of their friends there ahead of them eager to render any little assistance in their power. All were released on bail, and the Poeyuno cellars are at present under official surveillance.

Allegheny officers raided an alleged speakeasy in Carter alley yesterday morning and arrested Mike Droinski and 19 visitors. All were locked up in No. 3 police station house and an information, the police say, will today be preferred against Droinski for illegal liquor selling.

Special Officer William McCready and a squad of patrolmen last night raided an alleged disorderly house at 655 Second avenue, kept, it is claimed, by Daniel Caylor and his wife. Caylor and his wife and four male visitors were locked up.

AIR BRAKE STOCK IS MAKING MONEY

Annual Report Shows a Large Increase in Net Earnings of the Company.

NEW PATENTS ARE SECURED

Holders of stock in the Westinghouse Airbrake Company will hear a flattering report of the work of the year read at the annual meeting at Wilmerding October 3. The figures of the company's operations for the fiscal year ended July 31, 1905, have just been issued. The company is already feeling the effect of the insistence by more than one railroad that all cars turned over from other lines for transportation must be provided with airbrakes, and the determination of all the great trunk lines to have airbrakes on all new freight cars purchased by them. The company's report to the stockholders follows:

The business of the company for the fiscal year ending July 31, 1905, shows a marked improvement over that of the previous year.

Notwithstanding a further reduction in the established net prices of the company's product on January 1, there has been an increase of $1,962,870 41 in net sales and $630,621 19 in net earnings.

Patent Expirations Not Feared.

The proceeds of the sale of the company's interest in the inventions of Mr. George Westinghouse pertaining to the multiple control operation of motors of railway trains, previously reported, less a proper charge for experimental expense, are included in the item, "gross income from other sources," and are not credited, in whole or in part, to "patents," since no increase in that account was made when this interest was acquired.

Again gross earnings of $3,124,111 16, the board of directors has authorized special charges on account of depreciation, etc., aggregating $175,321 67.

Out of the net earnings for this period, dividends of $2,198,215 have been paid, leaving a balance of $760,564 49 to the credit of general profit and loss account.

The physical condition of the company's plant and other property is excellent, while the development of the improved brake device, referred to in last year's report, has progressed with such satisfactory results as to confirm the judgment previously expressed, that any depreciation of patent account by reason of expirations may be safely postponed.

HEAR OF MAN'S CRAVING FOR COMPANIONSHIP

The Rev. S. Edward Young Delivers Interesting Sermon to Pittsburgh Lodge of Elks.

The Rev. S. Edward Young's sermon in the Second Presbyterian church last evening was delivered to the Pittsburgh lodge of Elks and their friends. The members marched in a body from the lodge room to the church in Eighth street. The subject was "Today's Answer to Man's Craving for Companionship." The text was from St. John vi:67, "Will ye also go away?" He said:

What shall lonely people do? Our times ask no sharper, more serious question. Answers come in the shape of amusement gardens, expositions, theaters, society and family festivities, lodges and, on the downward side, saloons, gambling hells, dives, low and lowermost. Hours unoccupied will come and benefactor is he to his community who devises the best use of those hours—dangerous hours; for unless employed well there lurks in them a man's undoing. Self revelatory hours; for, though our daily work disgust us, we may keep thereto for wages' sake; but the way a man spends the unoccupied hour tells what his taste is. A normal mortal wishes to pass part of his leisure time in company with intimates. What zest is added by the fact that they have chosen him and he has chosen them. This, I take it, is the sun-like core of all our lodges and societies—the benefit features, the symbolism and beauty of the ritual and esoteric elements being only planet and satellite.

Sweet the retreat from strife and envy and slander into your brotherly circle of kindred souls. Who could help feeling solaced sometimes by a haven where hangs the motto of the Elks, "The faults of our brothers we write on the sand; their virtues we inscribe on the tablets of love and memory." This motto does not mean that the brothers and ourselves have no faults. It must not mean that any man is to weigh lightly his own faults. It ought to mean that he will work on the best elements, call them forth, encourage their development.

A revival of religion that does not take into account the tremendous opportunities open in the field represented by our fraternities and lodges must fall short of the full vision. I doubt not there is many a club or lodge room where a little more spiritual re-enforcement to the amount already there would be welcome and accomplish good incalculable. In all your longing for companionship, remember that Jesus Christ longs for yours.

Dr. Young conducted services in Highland park, opposite the zoo, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. There were about 4,000 present. The music was furnished by the Braddock band and Evangelist Young. Miss Minne C. Davis sang a solo. The sermon was on forgiveness, from Isaiah lv:7. Services were held in West park, Allegheny, at 6:15 in the evening.

RELIGION IS TEEMING IN THE KING'S DOMAINS

The Rev. Dr. Warren G. Partridge Tells of His Observations During Recent European Tour.

The Rev. Dr. Warren G. Partridge, who has just returned from a two months' trip in Europe, spoke yesterday at his church, the Fourth Avenue Baptist, on his observations on religious matters on that continent. Among other things he said:

Great Britain has, I believe, more vital and aggressive Christianity than any other nation in Europe. A profound religious awakening has visited many sections of Great Britain during the last two or three years. The simultaneous mission was inaugurated in that country with wonderful success, and the plan was copied in American cities. Our great evangelistic campain in Pittsburgh one year ago last winter, was carried on along the line followed in the great simultaneous mission in England. The wonderful Welsh revival has produced wide-reaching results. It was reported this summer that 80,000 people had joined the churches in Wales the past year, and Baptists policies that half of the whole number, or 40,000 converts, joined the Baptist churches of Wales. Two American evangelists held a remarkable series of meetings in England the past year. They were Dr. R. A. Torrey and the singer, Mr. Alexander. We heard much of their meetings and the splendid results. The London meetings were held in the immense Albert Hall, which is said to seat from 10,000 to 12,000 people. Everybody wanted to hear the American evangelist and his noted American singer.

I think the people of England go to church more regularly than we do in America. I preached five times in London during July and August, and found large congregations, and usually crowded churches, at every service. The people of England among the free churches attend church as regularly on Sunday evening as they do on Sunday mornings. I visited many of the churches of various denominations, especially among the free churches, and I always found big congregations. I found the free churches crowded at their seaside resorts. I saw one large Church of England edifice at a summer resort at the seashore crowded at four or five services on Sunday.

Bristol, England, is a beautiful city, as large as Pittsburgh. But on Sunday the street cars do not run until after 2 p. m., but the people walk to church by thousands. In 1902 I preached two Sundays at the historic Broadmead Baptist church in Bristol. The auditorium will seat about 1,600 people, or perhaps more, and the church was packed, even in August, and no street cars were running in the forenoon. I wonder what kind of a congregation a pastor in Pittsburgh would have on Sunday morning if the street cars were not running.

One of the great evils, in my opinion, in Europe is the union of church and state. This has been a detriment to the church in Germany, Russia, Spain, Italy, Austria, Holland, Sweden, and Great Britain. The state church is usually formal and dead. A state church mixes up too much in politics, and it is bad for the church and for the state. America is fortunate to have no union of church and state. A church which cannot live without the help of the state is not worth much as a spiritual force.

Smithfield Church Reopened.

The Smithfield Street Methodist church was reopened yesterday, all the services being attended by large congregations. At 10 a. m. the Sunday school was held, at 11 o'clock the pastor, the Rev. W. H. W. Rees preached; at 7 p. m. the Epworth league meeting was held, and at 9 o'clock the choir gave a sacred concert. Miss C. M. Horner and Miss K. Lingenfelzer sang solos. Prof. Malcherek played a violin solo.

HEBREWS DEDICATE THEIR NEW SYNAGOGUE

That of Gemulas Chesad at McKeesport Formally Opened for Public Services.

Promptly at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Miss Belle Firestone, daughter of Samuel Firestone, president of the congregation, unlocked the doors of the new Gemulas Chesad synagogue in Market street, McKeesport, and the dedicatory services of the $160,000 structure were begun. Preceding the ceremonies at the synagogue there was a street parade in which 2,000 men took part, with several brass bands.

City officials, headed by Mayor Falkenstein, took a prominent part. The mayor delivered one of the principal addresses, as did Select Councilman David Rosenberg, a member of the congregation. The services were conducted by Rabbi P. Friedman of Youngstown, O. Visiting rabbis from Pittsburgh and other places all took prominent parts in the ceremonies.

One feature of the exercises in the building was the lighting of the "holy fire," by Miss Annie Rosenberg, a daughter of Councilman Rosenberg. The exercises not only attracted large numbers of Hebrews, but hundreds of others in the city, and the building was inspected by thousands. Its furnishings have excited much comment in the city, the interior having been lavishly decorated with gold, marble and fine upholstering. The altar is said to be the most expensive in the county. The exercises were continued all afternoon and last evening, when a reception was given.

PASTOR DELIVERS HIS FAREWELL SERMON

THE REV. DR. H. S. JORDAN.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Sept. 17.—(Special.)—The Rev. Dr. H. S. Jordan, for the past eight years pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city, delivered his farewell sermon here today previous to his departure next Thursday for San Diego, Cal., where he goes to accept a unanimous call tendered by the First Presbyterian church of that city. Dr. Jordan is one of the most prominent Presbyterian divines of this locality and is also widely known among Knights of Pythias, of which order he is an active worker. Previous to coming to this city he was a member of the Pythian grand lodge of the state of Michigan.

Dr. Jordan's congregation did not look with favor upon his decision to leave and, at a congregational meeting held to consider the resignation, voted to reject it. Commissioners were elected to appear before the Shenango presbytery. Presbytery yielded to Dr. Jordan's wish and accepted the resignation.

QUARRY TRAIN EXCURSION AT OUTING OF BLOCK STONE SOCIAL

This picture does not show a railroad in the Alps, and neither does it reveal a scene on the Panama canal. It is a passenger train in the quarries of Evan Jones & Sons at Gray station on the Pennsylvania railroad on the occasion of the fourteenth annual outing of the Block Stone social, which was held there two weeks ago. Mr. Jones' guests went from the Union station in a special car on the Pennsylvania railroad, and were royally entertained at his country home.

The trip through the quarries was made on the interesting home-roads observation cars shown in the photograph. There was singing and an impromptu athletic tournament, with some side attractions of a county fair. The instrumental music was furnished by a "little German band" which was taken along to enliven the visitors.

These were a few of the guests: Lawrence Higgins, Thomas O'Brien, D. E. Jones, W. A. Macbeth, Bart. Fleming, Tony Vilsack, William Molamphy, Oscar Beckert, C. A. Martin, John B. Sheets, R. W. Curry, Frank Bennett, August Vilsack, Thomas D. Nelson, Evan Jones, John Keenan, Thomas Coutts, George Smith, D. E. MARKET'S INTEREST CENTERS ON MONETARY SITUATION

Clouds on Its Horizon Are Far Less Portentious to Merchants and Manufacturers Than to Speculators—Other Conditions Good.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—All interest in Wall street converges upon the monetary situation, and it is likely to do so for some time yet to come. Industrial, commercial and agricultural progress continues highly satisfactory and nothing that has developed during the week touching upon the fundamentals of the general situation is in the slightest calculated to impair confidence in the industrial future. It is only in the monetary position that any clouds appear and these are far less portentous to the merchant, the manufacturer and the inventor than to the speculative interests.

It is true enough that a strain on credit, if carried to the breaking point through an over inflation of security prices or over trading, could not be limited in its influence to security markets alone. The relationship of money markets to every form of industry is too intimate for that. The dependence of trade and commerce for its full development is upon two essentials—confidence and abundant funds—or liberal credit renders it impossible to confine to a security market the influence of some unfavorable development, which may be traceable to speculative excesses alone. Whatever disturbs confidence controls credit, and the merchant busied with his own affairs, far removed from any association with speculative ventures, is fully as likely to feel some measure of speculators' errors, when such occur, as speculators themselves.

It is scarcely necessary to dwell at any great length on this point. The cases are altogether too numerous and of too recent occurrence to admit of serious contradiction. The stock market reaction of 1900 and 1903, for instance, started when prosperity was abounding, and with practically every fundamental factor sound. It was not as a result of unfavorable developments in agriculture, commerce or industry that securities yielded at that time, nor is it likely to be in the future. Certainly, at the present time, the underlying situation could not well be better. The business contraction of 1903 and 1904, from which the country recuperated so wonderfully, and which is still in force, followed the collapse in prices. It did not precede them. It arose from the overburdening of credit, the locking up of funds in the undigested and indigestible securities and the shock to confidence through some very unpleasant disclosures concerning company promotions which need not be enumerated.

Fortunately, despite the heavy burdens placed on it, the country is in no such position, in respect to banking resources, as it was three years ago. The facilities for a much further extension of credit for purely speculative purposes at this time are certainly not abundant, but credit itself is not tied up to any great extent in untried ventures, and in the indigestible class of securities the process of assimilation has proceeded satisfactorily and bids fair to continue if there is no great overfeeding. The relatively small listings of securities on the stock exchange during the year and the almost total absence of listings which marked the purchase of securities of one corporation by another at inflated prices, which was such a feature of the 1902 period, is in marked contrast with that period at the present time. It is a hopeful sign.

With the development of time and particularly during the last week, which brought forth the September crop report, with its abundant promises, and a government trade statement which shows the steady and healthful expansion of international trade, it becomes more than ever apparent that Wall street is chiefly concerned with the technical position of the security market, than with anything else. That it is properly so concerned now no one can doubt, who takes into account the prevailing high level of prices, the heavy banking obligations, largely the result of the high level of prices, and the slender reserves and who notes in connection with this the continued drain of cash to the government and to the interior, to move the crops and to meet the demands of expanding and increasing industrial activity.

Some men, with abundant personal funds, the great banking pools and cliques with their huge blocks of stocks, who enjoy ample credit facilities from the institutions with which they and the pool members are associated, may bridge the interval at a glance and see in the bright promises of the future no necessity to sell now. In fact, the absence of any serious liquidation in the market would seem to indicate that the "big men" in the financial district were thoroughly convinced that, whatever may develop in the interval will prove to be but temporary, affording no real occasion for alarm and creating no situation that time cannot speedily and satisfactorily adjust. This is not an irrational theory, for the men who have taken a firm position in the market probably did so at a very much lower level of prices than now prevail, and if they have credit at their command and faith that the underlying conditions make for abundant future prosperity, temporary reactions of five or ten points or more would have no terrors for them.

But every one is not so situated in the market as the wealthy operators and the banking pools and cliques. Of the existence of the latter there can be no doubt. Every stock commission house of a dozen years standing knows that the conditions under which speculation is carried on have changed. If the disclosures in connection with the life insurance companies have done nothing else they have revealed the close workings of combinations and groups in bank flotations and syndicate undertakings, and what is true of these operations is true also of purely speculative ventures in the security market. Pool and clique work has been developed to an unparalleled degree in stock speculation. While lines of individual operation and more of combined work than ever before, and in these combinations, headed often by bankers who in the past frowned down upon, or professed to frown upon, speculative ventures, are found persons intrusted with great financial institutions and corporations.

This scheme of conducting speculative ventures, or holding great blocks of stock for advances, or in anticipation of some development in properties, of which the pool members themselves are directors, is a great element of strength at times of any ordinary disturbance. It might become the greatest element of weakness in the event of something really serious. There is nothing that so warps the judgment of men, directors and trustees of insurance companies and syndicate participants to the contrary, than a speculative interest in the markets. Not all men are alike, to be sure, and it may be as the witnesses in the life insurance investigation state, that their judgment was in no wise influenced by their personal interests and profits in undertakings, in connection with which later they acted as investors of trust funds. Despite this, the record of overpaid dividends, the purchase at high prices of property and the like, and the disasters attending upon them, all resulting from a desire to boost up stocks and turn a profit, is a long one. The greatest disasters that have ever attended corporations have been from speculative officers and directors.

Italian Cook Burned.

Nicholas Deporynole, cook at the Italian boarding house of Frank Dulis, 40 Boundary street, was badly burned while preparing dinner yesterday. A pan of grease boiled over, setting fire to the cook's clothing. He was burned about the hands, legs, and lower part of his body. The cook was taken to Mercy hospital and a boarder put out the fire, which had communicated to the house, with a bucket of water.

REVIEW OF THE WEEK IN THE LOCAL MARKETS

All Lines Were Dull, Some Weak and a Couple Promise Lower Prices Soon.

Local markets were decidedly slow last week and every line was easy to weak. Green goods are mostly being handled by the farmers of the neighborhood of Pittsburgh. The principal business along Liberty street is fruit and plenty of this is being sold.

In the grocery line sugar and flour are both weak. Flour has got down considerably below the $5 50 mark and jobbers say it will go as low as $5. On the other hand reports to the Northwestern Miller, the flour authority of the country, seem to indicate that the present figure is about the bottom and changes are more likely to be in the direction of higher prices if there are any at all. Sugar continues weak, but there is no prospect of quotations being lowered while the present demand is being made on the sugar market by thrifty housewives engaged in putting up a winter's supply of fruit.

Butter, eggs and cheese are all weak, but the market is not in such a condition as to threaten serious reductions. It is the wrong time of year for lower prices on these goods.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts.

Receipts Saturday were: Pennsylvania, 7 cars oats, 22 cars hay, 3 cars straw, 2 cars feed; Baltimore & Ohio, 2 cars corn, 4 cars hay, 1 car straw; Lake Erie, 4 cars hay, 2 cars oats, 2 cars feed, 1 car straw.

The week past in the hay and grain market has shown improvement in grain and hay, especially grain. Receipts have fallen off considerably. Oats are advancing and should go much higher before they equal hay down cost. Corn is doing better and many dealers look for higher prices as the stock of old corn is not large. Millfeeds are doing better as the demand is on the increase. Receipts of hay are not so heavy and supplies are being worked off with prices likely to advance.

Paris Still Retains Low Money Rate.

PARIS, Sept. 17.—(Special Cable.)—The bourse has been excellent throughout the week, money rates remaining low despite a general stiffening in other centers. Turkish bonds have been notably strong, the advance thereby being engineered as a preliminary to the flotation of another Turkish loan. Rio Tintos have been very active, their fluctuations ruling the tone of the market. French and Russian industrials are advancing steadily.

PROFIT-TAKING LEADS TO A WEAK FINISH

December Wheat Closes Off, Although Market Sentiment Is Bullish at the Start.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—Profit-taking on a large scale led to a weak finish in the wheat market today. At the close wheat for December delivery was down ¼@¾c. Corn is up ¼@⅝c. Oats show a loss of ⅛c. Provisions are practically unchanged.

In wheat at the start no signs of weakness were in evidence. On the contrary, sentiment was quite bullish, opening quotations for December being up ⅜c to ½c at 84½@85c. General rains northwest and southwest formed the basis of strength, although there was a number of minor influences. The most important perhaps was the continued strength of cash wheat. At Minneapolis No. 1 northern was quoted 3@5c over the September price. During the first hour of trading here, shorts were fairly active bidders. A leading bull also was reported as buying quite freely. Under this demand December sold up to 85c. Later an impression developed that the bull leader who had been an active buyer earlier in the day had turned seller on the bulge. This started general selling, which resulted in considerable reaction in prices, December declining to 84¼c. The market was weak the remainder of the session, quotations at the close being practically at the lowest point of the day. Final quotations on December were at 84½@84¾c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 197,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 982,000 bushels, compared with 959,000 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 832 cars, against 596 cars last week and 826 cars a year ago.

The corn market was firm as a result of wet weather throughout the middle west. A considerable decrease in primary receipts helped to strengthen values. Cash houses and shorts were the principal buyers. The market closed firm. December opened a shade to ⅛@¼c higher at 44⅞@45c, sold up to 45¼c and closed at 45c. Local receipts were 582 cars, with 150 cars of contract grade.

Influenced by the sharp loss of wheat the oats market was subjected to considerable profit-taking resulting in slight declines. A message from New York claiming that export demand had suddenly ceased tended to increase the selling pressure. December opened ¼c lower to a shade higher at 29¼c to 29⅜@29½c, sold off to 29¼c and closed at 29⅛c. Local receipts were 225 cars.

A 5-cent advance in the price of live hogs had a stimulating effect on the provisions market. In addition shipments of meat and lard were large. Trading was fairly active, and the market was firm the entire session. At the close January pork was up 2½c at $12 37½. Lard was up 2½c at $6 55. Ribs were unchanged at $6 67½.

Estimated receipts for Monday: Wheat, 87 cars; corn, 421 cars; oats, 271 cars; hogs, 29,000 head.

OVER 100 OFFENDERS.

Magistrate Kirby Faces a Varied Assortment of Prisoners at the Sunday Morning Hearings.

A varied assortment of offenders faced Magistrate Kirby at the Central station hearings yesterday morning. There were 106 in all, of whom 61 were discharged. The magistrate was in a hurry to get to church and made record time in hustling through with the cases. Among the prisoners was one John Mitchell, who was charged with brutally beating his wife. His fine was $25 and costs, while twice as much was meted out to Charles Scott, who was charged with keeping a disorderly house. Charles F. Bone, who was run to earth on Market street Saturday with a fire extinguisher on his back, was fined $25 and costs. He had taken it from the Hotel Dabney and told the officer that he had a fierce flame gnawing at his vitals and wanted the extinguisher to put it out.

At the South Side station house Walter Smith was fined $100 and costs or six months to the workhouse. It was testified that Smith was a worthless character and that the community in which he lived would be well rid of him. Bertha Smith drew a nominal fine for the alleged theft of $5, and John Conrad, who was said to have been mixing things up some at South Fourth and Carson streets, was fined $28 40.

MARKET IS CHEERFUL DESPITE BANK RATE

Most Financial Experts Are Agreed That Money Must Go to Four Per Cent.

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]
(Copyright, 1905, by New York Herald Co.)

LONDON, Sept. 17.—In spite of the advance in the bank rate, last week's markets maintained a distinctly cheerful tone, with few exceptions, which was strengthened when Thursday brought no further increase of the rate. Some hope, indeed, had arisen that a further advance will not be made, some arguing that with its visible reserve of twenty-four and a half millions, besides two millions already earmarked, or about to be, by the Indian government, the bank is in a fairly strong position.

Most financial experts, however, agree that a 4 per cent rate is inevitable, owing to the probable demands that will be made on London for gold by South America and Egypt, and any demand made upon the bank for gold by New York, it is believed, would immediately send up the rate.

Absolutely no regard has been paid by the markets to the trouble between Norway and Sweden, while the riots in Japan and the Caucasus are not expected to develop into serious trouble.

The fact that gold was purchased in the markets on Monday for New York failed to affect the bank rate, because the metal was withdrawn by a German house for shipment in New York via Berlin.

Some profess to see much method in this, for the reason that neither New York nor Berlin would care to see a sharp advance in the rates. Here, therefore, it is argued, financiers at both centers will exercise care to obtain the supplies they desire in the market rather than from banks.

Somewhat out of tune with the rest of the markets have been the British government stocks and other gilt-edged securities. A weakness has been apparent in that group, owing to the growing dearness of money and the menace of increased issues of Irish land stock early next year. Consols on balance are lower by ⅝ than last week. The Statist says that the advance in the bank rate to 4 per cent would further affect such gilt-edged securities where the prices are in some degree governed by the value of money.

In foreign government securities activity consequent upon the termination of war is now giving place to a more settled condition, but the removal of other causes of possible friction left the market cheerful and tolerably firm. Counteracting influence was excited by the rise in the German bank rate and a general uncertainty of the monetary position.

A fair number of dealings have taken place in Japanese bonds, prices are maintained at about last week's level, while Russians and Chinese remain practically unchanged.

The American market attracted some interest Thursday, though the latter was monopolized by one or two of the scalers and the Atchisons.

EARTHQUAKES CONTINUE.

Though the Shocks Are Slight They Are Sufficient to Maintain Panic Among the People.

NAPLES, Sept. 17.—(Special Cable.)—A telegram from Tropea, Calabria, says as a result of the earthquakes the old sulphurous spring on Mount Pors has run dry and emits, instead of gases, mud and warm water. The river Messini has swollen and presents strange phenomena. The water is cold and warm in different places. At the mouth sulphur vapors arise on the water.

The earthquake shocks are occurring throughout the whole region. Though only just perceptible they are sufficient to maintain a panic among the people, who do not dare re-enter those houses which are still standing.

Uncle Sam may have an uncalled-for letter in his list on the want page today.

THE MUM SHOW PROMISES MUCH

About 14,000 Choice Specimens Will Be on Exhibition in the Phipps Conservatory.

BURKE IS BUYING ANIMALS

The annual chrysanthemum show at the Phipps conservatory, Schenley park, will open on Sunday, October 29. About 14,000 of the choicest specimens of the aster family will be on exhibition. The show will continue for six weeks. Four or five new varieties, including several of variegated colors, will be seen at this show, which Supt. Burke promises to be the finest yet attempted at the Phipps conservatories.

Supt. Burke is now in Cincinnati, where he is said to be arranging for the purchase of some animals for the Highland zoo, including an elephant from the Hagenbeck concern. The zoo family was increased Saturday by the birth of an antelope and an elk. This makes the third antelope born at the Highland zoo. It is the intention of the zoo superintendent, Ernest Tretow, to sell a number of the elk in the spring.

The permanent art exhibit in the temporary building at the Carnegie Institute, which has been open during the summer, closed last night and the building will remain closed until the opening of the international art exhibit on Founder's day, November 2. The permanent exhibit only occupied two rooms, but the special exhibit in November will cover the space of the entire building.

The Rev. Dr. S. Edward Young, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, conducted religious services in Highland park, near the zoo, yesterday afternoon.

The trolley parks were well patronized. Lew Dockstader's minstrel band played to two large audiences at Calhoun park. Miss Clarice Templeton, the popular balladist, and Edward LaZelle, a juggler, assisted in entertaining Calhoun's patrons.

Oakwood park concerts were given by the Homestead Library band, the Colonial Comedy Four, and Andrew Flynn, a vocalist. Nirella's Fourteenth Regiment band attracted big crowds to Southern park. The Imperial quartet with a budget of the latest songs, and Weir, the wizard magician, added to the worth of the program.

In All Departments Was the Great Sunday Gazette Filled With Interesting Reading.

In all departments was yesterday's Gazette par excellence. All of the news of the world was succinctly told, and particularly pleasing were the topics on which the feature writers chose to dilate. The pictorial section was funnier than ever, while that section of the great paper devoted to the whims of women was brimming with pleasing fancies. The Republican primaries commanded attention in the county, and the results were highly satisfactory to all good Republicans. It was rumored that W. W. Murray, who fell short of the required number of votes for county commissioner, will be nominated by the Citizens. Two Fairman workers were arrested and locked up in Allegheny.

King Edward is helping to settle the Scandinavian dispute, and Prince Charles of Denmark may be made king of Norway. The trouble seems to be nearing a pacific solution.

Mr. Dennison, adviser of the Japanese peace envoys, said that Japan was not in a position to insist on indemnity. A large steel company, supposed to be part of the United States Steel Corporation, was incorporated in Wisconsin. Pittsburghers found ore in Delaware.

Secretary Habgood of the Pennsylvania State Editorial association reported that a record-breaking attendance will mark the Pittsburgh convention. William Goldberg, a wealthy resident of Washington, Pa., killed himself in the Presbyterian hospital, Allegheny. Secret service men are reported to have begun work on the Ryan murder. West Virginia is attracting the attention of railroad and industrial people more than any section of the country. Judge Macfarlane refused to be governed by police promises of immunity to prisoner for turning state's evidence. Many applications for transfers of liquor licenses were heard. George J. Gould turned down an offer to take the Little Kanawha syndicate at a price lower than Col. Schoonmaker paid for it. "Bud" Williams shot to death his mother-in-law and fatally wounded his brother-in-law. Thayer B. Hamilton, stranger to Port Royal, visited the fatal coal mine, was hurt in an explosion, and died. New memorial window of the First Presbyterian church recalls history. Anniversary of the disaster at the Allegheny arsenal 43 years ago.

Pirates could not hit the spit ball and were shut out at Cincinnati. By a small margin Cy Seymour of Cincinnati is still the leading National league batsman, but Wagner is close at his heels. By defeating Boston Connie Mack's Athletics have practically won the pennant in the American league. Harry Payne Whitney's Pegasus showed a great burst of speed and won the Junior Champion stakes. The Nelson-Britt fight has left a suspicion as to its honesty and the sport is injured thereby.

The stock market closed strong and higher. Canadian Pacific, the Gould issues, Chesapeake & Ohio and United states Rubber leading the advance. The bank statement was more favorable than the estimates. Local securities were also firm and higher. Air Brake leading. Wheat was weak.

SCUFFLE FOR REVOLVER.

Husband and Wife Playfully Wrestle for Weapon and Woman Receives Probably Fatal Wound.

Mrs. Mamie Mulligan of Cherry Valley, Washington county, is at the South Side hospital with a bullet wound which, the physicians say, will cause her death. The wound was incurred on Saturday night at her home during a playful quarrel with her husband over the possession of a revolver. The husband, nearly crazed from grief, brought his wife to the hospital and refuses to leave the neighborhood. The bullet entered the woman's abdomen, passed through the intestines and came out at the back.

When Mr. Mulligan was leaving his home Saturday evening his wife noticed the revolver in his pocket and asked him to leave it at home. He replied that he needed it, and the woman playfully went at him to take it away. The scuffle continued for some little time when suddenly the revolver was discharged and Mrs. Mulligan sank to the floor. The husband summoned a physician and on the latter's advice brought his wife to the hospital.

Mrs. Mulligan made an ante-mortem statement to Alderman McGarey yesterday in which she exonerated her husband. Mrs. Mulligan is 25 years old.

Well-Known in Beaver.

Thayer B. Hamilton, the young civil engineer of Beaver who died Saturday in Passavant hospital from burns received in an explosion Friday at Port Royal, was a son of S. Q. Hamilton, a well-known oil operator. Young Hamilton, who was 22 years old, was graduated two years ago from the Beaver High school and since that time had been a member of a Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad engineering corps. Beside his father he leaves one brother.

New Work Expected as Result of Credit Balance Advances

During the week past there were a few new features in the lower southwest fields that will tend to revive interest in their respective localities and naturally should stimulate new work. The feature that was most far-reaching in the influence it will exert was the two advances in the credit balance market. To operator and producer alike the benefit is extended and will bring about a better feeling than has been realized since the market slumped away from $1.50. The first advance was made on Tuesday last, when the purchasing agency posted new quotations, advancing the price of credit balances for crude of the Pennsylvania grade from $1.27 to $1.30 and for Lima and Indiana each 2 cents. On Saturday a similar advance was posted, making in all 6 cents of an appreciation in five days for Pennsylvania and 4 cents for Lima and Indiana. All other grades produced in less quantities were advanced in the same proportion, except the heavy Kentucky grade.

The effect of the advance will tend to start up considerable new work. The advances just noted will not of themselves give an impetus to new work to any great degree, but they have revived confidence and inspired the hope that better prices are to prevail. It is the general belief that the upward movement must continue if the demand for high crude is to be met. The drain on the stocks has now reached a point that the condition must be met if the surplus is not to be wiped out. This applies more specifically to oil of the Pennsylvania grade. It is doubtful, however, whether the greatest activity in development work can bring a change in conditions. Scarcity of producing territory stands in the way and the little that has not been fully developed cannot be relied upon to furnish anything better than small wells. The production from that source will not more than meet the decline in the old wells and for that reason it is hard to see the source that can supply any considerable increase. With winter approaching when development work falls off and the production from the old fields suffer a loss, the outlook is anything but encouraging for even better prices to make a change in the present status of supply and demand. Nothing short of at $1.50 market can bring out new work in any considerable volume in the deep sand districts. Development work can, on that market, be prosecuted with the assurance of getting at least small pumpers. Territory capable of supplying prolific producers is a possibility, but there is none in sight at this time. It is the belief of all well informed operators that the pools from now on in the lower southwest must be small in area.

Spurs or extensions to some of the old fields are quite probable and will be much sought after. During the past week an extension of almost two miles to the northeast of the Yellow Creek district, in Calhoun county, has been assured by the completion of the South Penn Oil Company's No. 2 on the G. W. Silcott farm. During the week this test was drilled through the sand and has been producing at the rate of 60 barrels a day. Holders of territory between this well and the field proper have been very busy making locations and within a few weeks there will be a continuous line of new derricks to the northeast. The Yellow Creek furnished some good producers since the field was last reviewed. The best was the No. 9 on the David Matthews farm, with an initial production of 150 barrels. While the field furnished other good producers the week's record was somewhat marred by the appearance of four dusters, the greatest number that has been encountered in any one week since development work began.

In the Fallen Timber Run district, Wetzel county, the Parker & Edwards Oil Company completed a test on the D. B. Fisher farm and secured a producer in the Big Injun that had 150 barrels as a starter. This is the best well that has been found in that district for some months. The Fallen Timber run district has not been so closely developed as other parts of the country and the strike will be an incentive for starting some new work. In the Smithfield and Littleton districts drilling down old wells from the Big Injun to the lower formations is something of a feature. In some instances the result has been quite satisfactory. The South Penn got a 100-barrel producer when it drilled down its No. 4 on the McIntyre-Peterson farm. The deep sand districts furnished a number of light producers. The Salem and Wallace districts in Harrison county had the greatest number of completions and with one or two exceptions all came in light.

Have the Home Beer Pure

Whatever you drink outside, let your home beer be Schlitz. That is pure beer. No bacilli in it — nothing to make you bilious.

Beer is a saccharine product, and germs multiply rapidly in it. The slightest taint of impurity quickly ruins its healthfulness.

We go to the utmost extremes to prevent that. Cleanliness is a science where Schlitz beer is brewed.

We even cool the beer in plate glass rooms, in nothing but filtered air.

Then we filter the beer. Then we sterilize every bottle.

And Schlitz beer is aged. The beer that makes you bilious is green beer.

When you order beer for your home, get the healthfulness without the harm. Get a pure beer - get an old beer - get Schlitz.
